Dulles Stays While Able, Ike Asserts

Successor Not Discussed; West Won't Start War

Washington — President Eisenhower said today he wants Sec. of State Dulles to remain on the job as long as Dulles believes he is able to carry on.

Eisenhower told his news conference that he and Dulles agreed during the president's visit to Walter Reed Army hospital yesterday to go right ahead with plans for international conferences.

In response to a question, the president said he has given no thought to naming an alternate negotiator if Dulles is physically unable to attend the conferences because of his illness with cancer.

Moreover, Eisenhower said he has not discussed with anyone the possibility of replacing Dulles as secretary of state.

Eisenhower said that since Dulles became secretary of state he has made it clear to the president that any time Eisenhower feels the secretary is either a political or national liability the president can accept his resignation.

Dulles Not Disabled

In this connection, Eisenhower said Dulles had never made the specific statement that he wanted to resign because that would have indicated the secretary wanted to lay down his duties and responsibilities.

Eisenhower said Dulles' physicians have made it clear there is nothing about the secretary's illness that is going to touch his heart or his head.

Eisenhower went on to say that Dulles is his closest friend and confidant. In the whole complicated business of foreign affairs, Eisenhower went on, no man has the equal of Dulles' wisdom and knowledge.

Eisenhower said emphatically that if there is any shooting over West Berlin it will be started by the Soviet Union.

Truman Airs Views on Talks With Russia

Another article on world affairs by Harry S. Truman appears on Page A-8 of tonight's Post-Crescent. The former president discusses British Prime Minister Macmillan's forthcoming trip to the Soviet Union for top level conferences with Russia's leaders.

There has been suggestions that either President Eisenhower or Vice President Nixon make such a trip.

Truman believes the Macmillan trip is worthwhile, but he rejects the idea of a U.S. state visit to Russia.

His reasons for this challenging view are set forth in today's article.

22 Negroes in School but No White Students

No Disorders as Classes Resume on Integrated Basis

Front Royal, Va. — Twenty-two Negro children and six white teachers, but not a single white child, showed up this morning at Warren County High school reopened on an integrated basis.

School officials had said previously they did not expect more than a dozen white children to return to the school which had been closed for five months.

They expected that the 14 teachers not under contract to a private educational group would show up, but when registration began only six teachers, Principal James S. Duff and his secretary were on hand.

The majority of the 1,000 displaced pupils—about 800—are continuing in emergency private segregated classes.

School officials conferred with the pupils on the subjects they would take at the start of classes tomorrow.

Register in Library

A school official said the Negroes were taken into the library. There the six teachers gathered them around a large table for registration.

The Negroes were "as calm as could be expected under the circumstances," the official said, although a few showed signs of nervousness.

A small knot of spectators—mostly newspaper reporters and photographers—were on hand as the 22 arrived at the end of the barricaded street leading to the school. Some in the crowd were white children of school age, but there were no incidents or shoutings.

The crowd began dispersing within a half-hour after the Negroes entered.

Hutcheson Not Ousted

Carpenters Union Agrees to Launch Corruption Probe

San Juan, Puerto Rico — AFL-CIO leaders will spare Maurice Hutcheson from action to oust him from their council, and in return the carpenters will launch a thorough corruption probe of the $50,000-member union.

Responsible labor federation sources reported that solution today to the hottest problem facing the AFL-CIO chiefs meetings in this sunny Caribbean winter resort.

Hutcheson is under indictment in Indiana in connection with a highway land scandal. He is also under AFL-CIO fire for refusing to answer questions posed by the senate racketeers committee in Washington.

Top AFL-CIO leaders were reported disposed to accept Hutcheson's written assurance that he never misused the union funds. This would remove the reason for ousting him from the AFL-CIO council.

The uncommunicative Hutcheson failed to show up last fall in response to an invitation to explain to fellow council members his refusal to answer the senate committee's questions.

Hutcheson ignored a similar summons to the current meeting.

Norwegian Princess Will Go to Phoenix

Oslo, Norway — Norway's Princess Astrid will leave tomorrow for a 3-week stay in Phoenix, Ariz., to recover from rheumatism.

A palace announcement today said she will travel by Scandinavian Airlines System via the polar route. She will stop in Los Angeles before going on to Phoenix.

The palace said Princess Astrid, 27, needs the sunny, dry climate of Phoenix to aid her recovery.

Cooperative Effort Unique in State; Vote Along City Lines

BY JACK GLASNER Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Fox Cities will have a new University of Wisconsin extension center building and it will be on Midway road midway between Appleton and Menasha.

After the Winnebago county board Tuesday approved the Midway site by a 28 to 13 margin, the Outagamie board did the same, 45 to 10. It was the first time in many months that all supervisors have been present at an Outagamie board meeting.

The votes on both boards were along expected lines—Menasha supervisors (except for one), joined by some from Neenah and the rest of Winnebago county, voting against the site and Kaukauna supervisors, joined by some from Appleton, New London, Little Chute and Combined Locks, voting against it on the Outagamie board. Voting for the site was one Menasha supervisor and two from Kaukauna.

Unique Effort

The combined $300,000 effort, unique in the state, represents the end of slightly over a year's efforts to find a home for the extension. Its present Menasha quarters, inadequate and short-lived, are in the vocational wing of the Menasha High school and in rented office space. Appleton, Neenah and Menasha contributed $4,000 this year to pay the rental, previously paid by Neenah and Menasha industries.

The backers of the Menasha and Kaukauna sites did not relinquish glimmering hopes

Greek Cypriots Seek Plebiscite

Want Archbishop's Demand for Vote By Islanders

London — Greek Cypriot leaders pressed Archbishop Makarios today to demand a plebiscite in which the people of Cyprus could accept or reject the proposed constitution for the strategic Mediterranean island.

The conference on Cyprus independence was self-suspended until Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes recovers from injuries suffered in the plane crash yesterday which killed 15 of the 24 persons riding with him.

Menderes' injuries were reported not serious, and Turkish Ambassador Nuri Birgi said it was hoped he would be out of the hospital soon.

Complications Grow

But complications were mounting for the conference, which the British, Greek and Turks had hoped to see end this week in speedy agreement on plans to make the strife-ridden island an independent republic.

Informants said there was widespread uneasiness about the proposed constitution among the 23 advisers accompanying the archbishop, who is the unchallenged leader of the island's Greek Cypriot majority.

Makarios was understood to be under heavy pressure to hold off approval of the agreement pending a plebiscite.

A majority of Makarios' Greek Cypriot advisers reportedly have told him that any agreement on independence for Cyprus without a genuine plebiscite on the island "would be considered invalid and utterly unacceptable" by the island's Greek-speaking population.

The escape of the 60-year-old Menderes, one of 10 survivors of the viscount crash in the fog near London yesterday, was described by airport officials as a near miracle.

Shortly after Menderes' plane crashed, another aircraft passed just overhead and landed safely with Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis aboard, also en route to the Cyprus conference.

Menderes was being treated for bruises, shock and possible internal injuries. He slept soundly all night, and after a thorough medical check today doctors said his condition was not serious.

Bar Governors Seek Probe of Reynolds Action

Milwaukee — The board of governors of the State Bar of Wisconsin moved today to investigate an official action by state Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds, Jr., in connection with the bar's code of ethics.

Involved is the attorney general's decision to withdraw as counsel for the board of state college regents in the controversial firing of Dr. George Ball, and Canon 31 of the code. The section deals with the right of a lawyer to choose his clients.

Two Milwaukee attorneys, John Schlosser and William Lawler, petitioned the board to investigate Reynolds' position. They said it was an important question for the state bar, individual lawyers and the public.

Charles L. Goldberg of Milwaukee, president of the bar, referred the petition to the board of governors for action.

Satellite Flashes Hourly Data Vital to Weather Forecasting

Washington — America's newest earth satellite streaked through space today, flashing back hourly data that may open a new era in man's ability to forecast the weather.

Jubilant scientists at national aeronautics and space administration headquarters reported that weather monitoring equipment aboard the 20-inch satellite was "working perfectly."

Delay on Findings

"We haven't found a single fault yet," a NASA spokesman said.

Among other things, the basketball-size globe is designed to spot and report cloud conditions in an experiment designed eventually to help forecasters predict storms.

However, NASA officials reiterated that it probably will be two weeks before electrical signals transmitted from this satellite can be processed and findings reported.

By that time radio batteries which report findings of the satellite's weather eyes, a pair of photoelectric cells, are expected to have gone dead.

But the satellite itself, a 21-pound sphere launched yesterday from Cape Canaveral, Fla., may continue to orbit through space for at least a decade, possibly for centuries.

Not until the effects of atmospheric drag can be observed and calculated will a more definite life span be known.

Triggered by radio signals from ground stations, the satellite's tiny radio transmitter flashes back weather data approximately once each hour.

A NASA spokesman said the device is triggered "at least twice every orbit." Latest calculations indicated the satellite, dubbed Vanguard II, makes a complete orbit of the earth every 125.9 minutes.

Although Vanguard II marks only a preliminary step in utilizing satellites for weather observation, Dr. Richard Porter, head of the U. S. satellite panel for the International Geophysical Year, called it "the beginning of a new era in weather research."

Other scientists indicated satellites possibly some day may help man achieve his ancient goal of controlling the weather.

As for possible military surveillance, Vanguard II would be of no use, an army spokesman said.

No Military Value

Asked if the satellite could have military applications other than its possibilities for weather information, Dr. Hans Ziegler of the signal corps research and development laboratory said, "None at all."

In blasting the weather satellite into orbit yesterday, U. S. scientists chalked up their second success in the failure-plagued Vanguard program. Six out of seven earlier Vanguard satellite shots fizzled, but all three stages of

Missouri Election Seen as Party Test

Washington — A special election March 3 to elect a Missouri congressman will provide this year's first test of major party strength at the polls.

The election may have a certain psychological value in subsequent state and local contests later in the year.

In the special election, the voters will choose a successor to the late Democratic Rep. George H. Christopher, who died Jan. 23. It is the home district of former President Harry S. Truman.

Democratic party officials said they expect to win in the normally Democratic district, but noted that Republicans won it for one term in 1952. Republicans concede their candidate faces an uphill battle.

Harder Firm In Opposition To Proposal

Doubts Yields Would Be Boosted Without Increase in Rates

BY JOHN WYNGAARD Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The veteran chief of the state tax administration and the state's best qualified expert on income tax enforcement Tuesday stuck by his guns in opposition to a withholding system for the collection of state income taxes.

Harry Harder, state tax commissioner, repeated his skepticism about such a system in testimony before the legislature on his budget requests for the next year.

Expensive Plan

Payroll deduction of state taxes would be expensive, and would assure no significant improvement in yields without increasing tax rates, he told the legislative finance committee.

Harder replied to a question by Assemblyman Fred Risser, a co-chairman of the committee, Madison Democratic leader and one of the

Preparing Estimate on Administration Cost Before Bill Is Written

Madison — A bill providing a withholding plan for collection of state income taxes has been prepared and sent to the Wisconsin Department of Taxation for an evaluation, including an estimate of the probable cost of administering the plan.

Tax Commissioner Harry Harder confirmed today a report his department was preparing the fiscal note. It is the last step in preparing the bill for introduction.

The bill would provide a "windfall of about $68 million," resulting when immediate collections overlap the delayed collections of the annual tax. Harder said $48 million would be earmarked for distribution to counties and municipalities.

Ike Ready for Mexican Visit

Plans 2-Day Stay For Conferences With Lopez Mateos

Washington — President Eisenhower takes off today for Austin, Texas, on the first leg of a good will mission to Mexico for informal talks with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

Eisenhower arranged a morning news conference here and scheduled departure aboard his private plane, Comblumbe III, for 2:45 p.m. He is due to arrive at Bergstrom Air Force base at Austin at 7:30 p.m.

Eisenhower will spend the night at Bergstrom, then take off again at 6 a.m. Thursday on a 4-hour flight to Acapulco, Mexico's tropical resort on the Pacific ocean shore. The president plans a 2-day stay.

This will be the first meeting of Eisenhower and Lopez Mateos, who took office last December. They have arranged talks aboard the Mexican president's yacht tomorrow and at Eisenhower's Acapulco hotel, the plush Pierre Marquies, Friday.

Administration officials report there are no major United States-Mexican problems to occupy the two chief executives, and that the principal purpose of the visit is to give them a leisurely opportunity to get acquainted.

Sosa Blanco Shot By Firing Squad On Own Order

Havana — Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco died before a firing squad today, calmly giving the order to fire.

Convicted a second time yesterday as a major war criminal, the 51-year-old career officer had one last request — that he give the order to his executioners.

Army sources gave this account of the major's execution in the early morning hours at La Cabana fortress:

Sosa Blanco was led from his cell into the courtyard where the firing squad waited. He told them:

"I forgive you, muchachos (boys), and you will forgive me."

Then he calmly gave the command to fire.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro had branded Sosa Blanco a mass murderer and virtually demanded his death. The unofficial total of executions carried out by the revolutionary regime now is 303.

Sosa Blanco got a fleeting stroke Jan. 15 at his winter home at nearby Pinehurst and was immediately transferred to an army hospital.

An announcement today by the Womack army hospital here said the stroke suffered and came up yesterday with the same guilty verdict.

Gen. Marshall Seriously Ill

FL. BRAGG, N.C. — Gen. George C. Marshall, 78, has had another stroke and his condition is considered serious.

The World War II army chief of staff suffered a mild stroke Jan. 15 at his winter home at nearby Pinehurst and was immediately transferred to an army hospital.

An announcement today by the Womack army hospital here said the stroke suffered and came up yesterday with the same guilty verdict.

Juke Box Boss Won't Talk About Gangster Loans

Washington — New York juke box baron Charles Bernoff refused today to tell senate racketeers whether top gangsters and racketeers have obtained loans through his money lending firms.

Bernoff, named by the committee as secretary-treasurer of Admiral Trading corporation, and the third largest juke box operator in New York, invoked the fifth amendment.

"I sincerely believe my answer might tend to incriminate me," Bernoff said.

Irving Mischel of Forest Hills, N. Y., self-styled silent partner of Bernoff in Admiral Trading, promptly told the committee of a long career in crime and of his own involvement in loans to persons in the narcotics, prostitution, and gambling rackets.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, told the committee Mischel was freed on temporary parole from a prison to give his testimony. Kennedy declined to tell reporters the name of the prison.

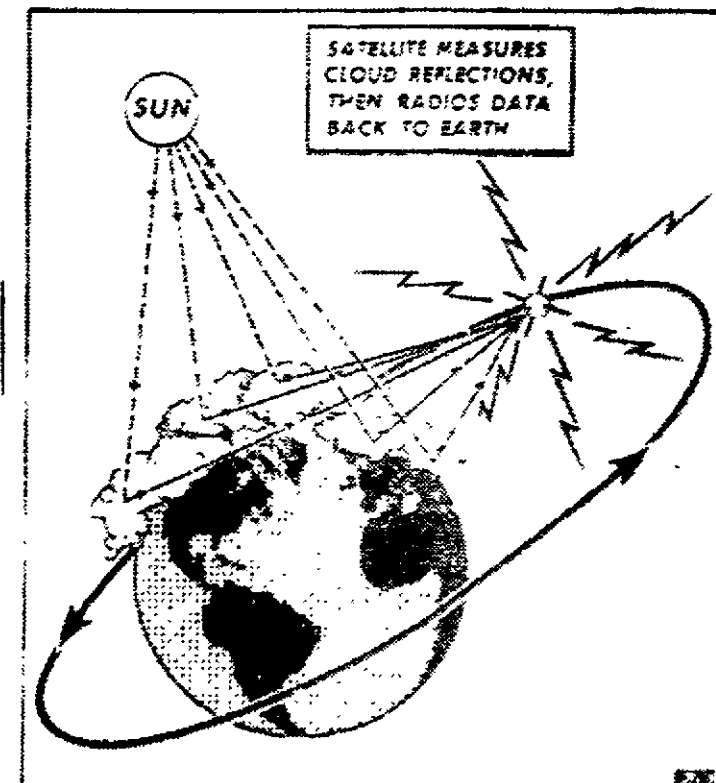

Mischel said testimony by Bernoff had helped to convict him on a stock swindling charge in 1953. Kennedy, noting this, said all of Mischel's testimony has been checked and verified from independent sources.

Khrushchev Warns Of 'Shooting War'

No Encroachments Against Rights Of East Germany in Berlin Issue Will be Tolerated, Premier Says

Moscow — Premier Khrushchev warned today that any attempt by the western allies to shoot their way to West Berlin would mean war with the Soviet Union.

"No encroachments against East German territory, in the center of which Berlin is situated, can be tolerated—either by land, water or air," Khrushchev declared in a speech at Tula, an industrial center 120 miles south of Moscow.

Khrushchev said some western statesmen "try to frighten us by saying if we present them reaching West Berlin, they would begin to shoot."

Mean War

"But to everybody it is evident that if they begin to shoot, this will mean the beginning of war," the Soviet premier declared.

The speech, given yesterday, was made public today by the Soviet news agency Tass.

The western powers have proposed a big four foreign ministers parley on Germany this spring but have not said

Youth Admits Killing Three Of His Family

Hunted for a Year, 18-Year-Old Gives Up in Chicago

Chicago — A slender 18-year-old youth, hunted for nearly a year in connection with the slaying of his parents and brother, returns to Springfield, Mass., today to face charges of murder.

The youth, Robert Clifford, surrendered to police yesterday, has been indicted for the murders of the three members of his family in their home in Hampden, Mass., last March 3. He told police the shootings followed refusal by his parents to let him buy a car.

Roamed Country

Young Clifford, cold, hungry and broke when he rendered, said he had roamed the country since the rifle slayings and came to Chicago last Sunday from Los Angeles, where he had been working as a truck driver under the name of John Hart.

Clifford waived extradition at a hearing in criminal court and two detectives from Springfield arranged to return him to the Massachusetts city. Hampden is a small town near Springfield.

The detectives took a statement from the Clifford boy last night. They said it agreed in virtually every particular with one Clifford had given earlier to Chicago detectives admitting the slayings.

In both statements, Clifford said he shot his mother, Marie, 44; his father, Robert Clifford, Sr., 47, an unemployed factory foreman, and then his brother, Ronald, 14, with a semi-automatic .22 caliber rifle, and then fled in his father's 1953 model auto after taking $700 from his father's wallet.

First Statement

In the first statement which was read to reporters, Clifford said he shot his parents because they refused to let him buy an auto with $150 he had earned doing odd jobs. Clifford said he didn't want to shoot his brother, Ronald, but had to after Ronald came home from school, saw the body of his father in the hallway and started to run outside. Clifford said he shot him then because he was afraid Ronald would tell police of the killings.

Boy Survives 17-Story Fall

New York — An 11-year-old boy is alive after falling 17 stories from an apartment window.

He landed in a low bush on a soggy lawn yesterday.

The boy, James Bell, suffered two broken wrists, two broken elbows, a black eye and internal injuries.

After four hours in the operating room, he was listed in critical condition at a hospital.

His father, Luther Bell, 38, said the boy had sneaked a quarter to buy potato chips, and had been sent into his bedroom as punishment.

A short time later, an older brother looked into the room and found it empty. He looked out the window and saw 200 feet below—a small figure lying on the lawn.

Police, who were told that James' eyesight is bad, listed his plunge as an accident.

Firing Touches Off Wild Shooting Spree

Frustrated Artist, Discharged From Job, Returns With Rifle, Kills Two

New York — "Someday you're going to see my name in the headlines—one of the greatest artists in the world," 27-year-old Ponell Johnson told fellow employees.

Part of the prophecy came true yesterday—less than 24 hours

Johnson, fired from his job as a shipping clerk in a Manhattan textile firm, flew into a murderous rage and shot two office receptionists to death.

Homicide Charge

He was held today on a homicide charge.

"He was mad at the whole world," sobbed his 24-year-old wife, Mercedes, mother of his five daughters. "He has a terrible temper. Once he gets angry he is uncontrollable."

For Johnson, the shootings were the climax of a young life tortured by wild ambition. Johnson, a Negro, considered himself an unrecognized genius whose weird paintings would bring him fame and fortune. Scorn infuriated him.

"They laughed at my paintings," he said of the two slain girls, Lorraine Rosenberg, 20, and Elaine Fallik, 18, who worked in his office.

Johnson wore a beret and carried an orange-and-black striped cane.

When he was fired he took his discharge pay, went to a pawn shop and bought a hunting rifle and 50 cartridges. He returned to the office and fired twice—then the gun jammed. Three company executives disarmed him.

"If that damned gun hadn't jammed I'd have killed them all," he said. "I'd have killed and killed and killed."

The pictures he painted were strange and troubled.

Pistol-Packing Pedestrian Shoots Out Traffic Light

Hamilton, Ohio — Every time James Daniels, 42, approached an intersection here, the "walk-wait" pedestrian lights at the intersection would turn to "wait," he told police.

This, he said, irritated him.

Yesterday afternoon, when the light turned to "wait," Daniels whipped out a .38-caliber revolver and shot out the light, police reported.

Replacing the weapon in his pocket, Daniels sauntered into a nearby cafe where he was arrested.

Officers charged him with destruction of property, carrying a concealed weapon and discharging firearms in the city.

Charge Mother With Neglect

Repeater Statutes Cover Case in Which Three Children Died

Sparta — Mrs. Florence Decorah, whose three children died of carbon monoxide poisoning while she was on a drinking spree, was charged Tuesday with child neglect under the repeater statutes and bound over to Monroe county court for trial. Three other adults also are being held. A fourth adult involved died.

Dist. Atty. William Gleiss said the charge against the 32-year-old mother is a felony. She is on parole from her home by acute arthritis, women's prison at Taycheedah where she was sentenced during the ordeal.

Miss Margaret Sullivan, a former laundry worker, was the children, Susan 11, Ar-found in her unheated home nold 9 and Mabel 7, died of Monday night when a passer-by heard her feeble cries for help. Kingswan died Monday in a hospital of shock and exposure.

Continued Drinking

Sunday morning the car became stuck in deep snow near Warrens and the adults continued drinking while trying to free the auto. The three children were found dead in the car by a physician.

The other adults were taken to Sparta where Mrs. Was and Paché were charged with drunkenness under repeater laws. The district attorney said he had not decided what charge to file against White Rabbit.

He said democracy makes people adamant about what they consider their minimum economic rights.

Administration to Insist That Congress Revise Taft-Hartley Law

Wants Congress to Enact Single Law Based on Ike's Program

BY JACK BELL

Washington — The Eisenhower administration will insist on Taft-Hartley law changes as part of any legislation to curb labor abuses, Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) said today.

Dirksen, the senate Republican leader, said President Eisenhower and Sec. of Labor Mitchell are backing solidly an effort to get congress to act on a single-package measure based on the president's 20-point program.

"If the labor committee doesn't report out a bill including all of the president's proposals, we will offer them as amendments when the senate takes up the measure," Dirksen said.

No Compromise

Dirksen described as impractical Mitchell's announced willingness to go along with Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) on a 2-bill approach, with union-management curbs considered in one measure and controversial changes in the Taft-Hartley act in another.

Mitchell himself could not be reached for comment on Dirksen's statement. A labor department spokesman said the department had no comment.

Mitchell himself issued a statement last week saying he wouldn't oppose the 2-package approach provided both halves of it were passed during the session.

Product Counts

"Whatever the packaging," he said, "it's the product that counts."

But he called for public pressure on Democratic leaders to make certain that congress didn't quit with only part of the program enacted.

Dirksen contended there is no assurance two bills would be passed.

"The only way it could be done would be to have an iron-clad agreement that the second bill would be considered and acted upon," Dirksen said. "That kind of an agreement is difficult to get and I'm afraid we would have trouble lifting a second bill before the senate."

Eisenhower's program, aimed primarily at safeguarding workers' funds and their rights as union members, is broader in scope than some similar proposals by Kennedy and Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr. (D-NC).

City to Take '59 Work Bids On March 17

At Least Nine Tons Of Asphalt Surfacing On Projects' List

Bids on 1959 city improvement work should be opened March 17 by the board of public works, the city council's street and sanitation committee has decided.

Unit prices will be sought for asphalt street surfacing, curb and gutter work, sewer trenching and laying, grading, sidewalk construction, pipe and stone and chips.

Very little is known about how much of each type of work will be done, except for asphalt surfacing. That list includes the streets on which curb and gutter construction was done last year.

Still Speculation

State Students May Pay Higher Tuition

Madison — Whether students at the University of Wisconsin and the state colleges will be asked to pay higher fees to help meet the increasing costs of their instructional services is attracting capitol speculation in whispered tones.

The effect of higher operating budgets presented to the legislature by the Nelson administration on behalf of the colleges and universities is to propose a higher taxpayer contribution in proportion to fee income than in the historical pattern of financing those institutions.

Joe E. Nusbaum, Gov. Nelson's budget aide, conceded that point in a discussion with the legislative finance committee on the contents of the Nelson executive budget but he did not say whether the administration will support a proportionate student fee increase.

Respective Boards

Nusbaum left the impression that the administration would prefer to have the respective boards of regents of the institutions, or the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, take the initiative on the matter. But there has been no hint that they intend to do so. In the past landscape architect and his fee adjustments have been class.

Board Promises to Maintain Forever Plamann Park Area

The Outagamie county board Tuesday promised to maintain as a park forever land donated to it by Robert F. Plamann, who died Jan. 31. Plamann gave over 115 acres to the county at County Trunks E and EE.

The board also, by a standing vote, expressed its gratitude and sympathy to Plamann's family.

The park was opened to the public last year and is under development by the county. Plans have been prepared by a University of Wisconsin landscape architect and his fee adjustments have been class.

One Big Plat Approved, One Turned Down

Highland Acres Contains 121 Lots At Northeast Corner

The city planning commission is recommending council approval of one 121-lot plat and denial of a 150-lot one.

Highland Acres is the name of the 121-lot plat. It is a final plat of the northeast corner of the city and is owned by Chester F. Laux, Eric W. Kirk, Harold Council and Fred Kesting. It is part of the 160-acre Kesting - Kirk - Laux annexation.

Westview plat is the name of the other. It is a tentative plat at the northwest corner of the city and is owned by Christian Vanden Heuvel, Kenneth Hooyman and H. J. Slezak. Annexation passed the council for the first time Feb. 4.

Not All Platted

Highland Acres does not include a lot layout of all land in the annexed area. It shows lots only along street extensions where sewer and water lines have to be placed.

One street in the plat, Owassa street, has only 50 feet of right-of-way, a condition the commission approved, with the announcement it probably will press for an ordinance to permit the council to designate 50 feet as enough under certain conditions. State law requires 60 feet.

The consideration in this case is that Owassa street now has only 50 feet of right-of-way south of the plat's southern boundary.

Park, School

The Westview plat was denied approval pending questions about locations needed for streets that will carry sewer and water.

The plat includes the 11,331-acre northwest elementary school site and the 6,452-acre combination sewage lift station and park site.

Hooyman wants Victoria street renamed Eugene street, and the commission concurred. It will be named after his son.

The name for the park site will be selected by the park board, it was said.

Driver in Crash Which Killed 2 Gets Year in Jail

Janesville — Orving J. Biba, Jr., 34, of Cicero, Ill., Monday was sentenced to a year in jail and five years probation on negligent homicide charges stemming from a highway accident which killed two members of a Madison semi-pro-hockey team Nov. 2.

Biba appeared before Municipal Judge Ralph Gunn and pleaded no contest.

Gerald Keepers, 21, and Richard Wills, 22, both of Madison, were killed when their car was involved in a collision with Biba's vehicle on U. S. 51 near Edgerton. Keepers and Wills, along with other team members, were returning from Rockton, Ill.

Authorities said Biba was intoxicated at the time of the accident. Biba will serve the jail term under the Huber law and the court provided that he will not drive an automobile during his probationary period.

Practical Jokers in British Royal Family

London — Members of Britain's royal family are practical jokers according to the owner of one of the world's biggest stores selling gadgets for such horseplay.

My catalogue goes into Buckingham palace, said Ernest Ellison, the 62-year-old owner, adding great jokers, royal — they always have been. The old prince of Wales, now the duke of Windsor, he was a great one for magic.

Elison refused to identify any of his royal customers.

Wasn't it the duchess? ... his secretary started.

No names Ruby, the hostess interrupted. They might not like it.

The store was founded 61 years ago by the present owner's father. Within the next month it must move to make room for an office building.

Charge French Using Torture In Algeria

Paris — A nonpolitical association of French jurists has charged that French authorities in Algeria are persistently using inhuman methods including torture.

The association for the safeguard of judicial institutions and individual liberties adopted a motion Monday protesting against the continued violation of human rights in Algeria. Rene-William Thorp, former head of the Paris bar, presided at the meeting.

The motion also criticized the new penal code, which it charged "legitimizes administrative arrests, dangerously limits the right to criticize court decisions, and threatens to deal a heavy blow to freedom of the press."

The resolution protested "the persistent usage in Algeria of certain inhuman methods of extra-penal repression such as torture, their gradual extension to metropolitan France, and unexplained disappearances in detention centers."

Following Gen. De Gaulle's installation as premier last year, his government said strict instructions had been given to the army to refrain from any illegal practices.

Jobs Continue Scarce, WSES Office Reports

No Immediate Break In Tightness Seen, Gehrke Declares

Jobs continue scarce, Wisconsin State Employment Service in Appleton reports.

"We see no immediate break in the tightness of the job condition," says Fred Gehrke, WSES office manager, "but textile mills are beginning to open up slightly and may be back to normal in about two weeks."

The textile mill development, Gehrke says, won't mean any new jobs, simply old-line jobs being filled again, mostly by those who were laid off.

There are some specialty fields in which jobs can be found. One of these, Gehrke said, is the clerk-typist. Another is the skilled machinist.

93 Jobs

The WSES in January helped 93 people find jobs. This compares to 84 in December and 83 in January.

There were 72 job openings as January ended, compared to 60 at the end of December and 72 at the end of January a year ago.

During the month, the WSES received 168 job orders, compared to 137 in December and 158 in January a year ago.

There were 2,222 applicants on file at January's end, compared to 2,097 for December and 2,214 for January a year ago.

Decline Noted

A breakdown of the 93 jobs filled shows 22 in the janitorial field, 20 in wholesale and retail trades, 19 in textile mills, 11 in private households and 13 in office work.

The monthly labor market report for Outagamie county reports a 2 per cent decline in total employment during the two months ended in mid-January.

The 60 reporting companies, the letter says, had a total employment of 12,257 in mid-November but only 12,003 in mid-January.

Largest decline was in soft goods manufacturing, 168 jobs, and contract construction, 61. There also was a loss of 64 jobs in the wholesale and retail trades, but this is customary after the Christmas season.

Real meaning of Red Cross ... people helping people

Everyone becomes a member of the Outagamie County Chapter of Red Cross when he or she contributes during the annual campaign for funds.

Membership means belonging to our local County Red Cross Chapter. Officially chartered by the United States Congress 75 years ago, Red Cross is sometimes taken for granted.

Not so, anymore, in Berlin and Colfax, Wisconsin ... not so in flooded areas in Ohio and Pennsylvania. When the tornado struck Berlin two years ago, Red Cross poured $55,000 in disaster relief into this 40-mile neighbor. In Colfax last summer, $250,000 came from Red Cross when it was needed. Outagamie County received no disaster relief — but then, we did not have a disaster, for which we are all grateful.

The local services provided by Red Cross come from local volunteers. It takes adequate funds to make such services possible and these funds also must come from volunteers — from you who become members, and from those who solicit your membership. You are asked to join Red Cross again. Your membership is important to some real-life neighbor.

Other factual messages like this will soon explain individual local Red Cross volunteer services which depend on your annual membership fee to keep making them possible. This year, enroll your entire family in a Joint Family Membership.

Mr. Dulles' Great Contribution

John Foster Dulles, now suffering from a recurrence of cancer, has been a great secretary of state. The deep concern in the capitals of the world over his health is one measure of his greatness. Another is the discussion over a possible successor, for everyone realizes the time may be near when he must be replaced. Few consider the office he holds to be of much less importance than that of the presidency. Mr. Dulles has made a great contribution to the people of the United States and to the world. He has gone unswervingly on his way in face of severe criticism. He has been fortunate in that the swift movement of events often has shown him to be right while the words of his critics were still being heard. His patience and his confidence have saved the world from war and possibly total destruction. When he tried to tell the people about his policy of standing up to communists to the very brink of war, he was denounced, scolded and reviled. "Brinkmanship" was the term used to ridicule his policy even as the phrase "the misguided missile" was applied to his travels in the interests of peace. Today "brinkmanship" is the national policy and the state department is strongly cheered when it refuses to "yield to communist threats."

Reforming Election Laws

Democrats in their campaign arguments in Wisconsin for the last decade have demanded revisions of the election laws as they govern the use of money to finance parties and candidates. To the extent that these statutes have not been modified to take into account changing times and conditions, the proposal makes sense. We endorse without reservation the recent request of Gov. Nelson to the legislature for a serious study, by a committee of qualified persons, of the applicability of our corrupt practices laws to today's circumstances. But some of the Democratic leaders are strangely contradictory in their position on this question. Sen. Maier, the Democratic leader in the state senate, is demanding the immediate repeal of one section of the present corrupt practices law, that which prohibits the use of labor organization dues receipts for political campaign purposes. That is one of the recent amendments to the law that was intended to reflect changing times and problems. In the context of the governor's proposal for a non-partisan study of the whole field, it is a confession of partisan design and intent. Half a century ago corporations were forbidden by Wisconsin law to use corporate funds for political campaign purposes, in any way. It was a good law. It answered the problems of the day. The great corporations and notably the railroads were involved in political affairs of those days to a profound degree and sometimes directly against the public interest. There has been no serious proposal since that time that we know about to repeal that prohibition. In 1955 the legislature concluded that there had arisen a new and vast economic power — in the form of organized labor — that was deeply involved in political campaigns. It applied to the labor organizations, with respect to their dues income, the same prohibition that had applied for so many decades to corporate employers. Not only was that an effort to equalize the political rights of the two great contending economic groups. It was also a protection of the democratic rights of the individual union dues-payer. Under closed shop contracts many persons must join a union. Their participation is not voluntary. Permitting unions to spend dues money for a political campaign could and did put many individuals in the position of assisting in the financing of a candidate or a party that they opposed. There isn't much doubt about Sen. Maier's reasons for his poorly disguised anxiety to get rid of that law. The Democrats know that union treasuries can be tapped for lush campaign contributions. They are preparing for the elections of 1960. But this is a singularly inept way to persuade the observant electorate of the purity of Democratic intentions. This is a crass disclosure of a selfish appetite and virtually an admission that all of this pious talk of modernizing the election spending laws was mere campaign oratory. The unions in state politics managed during the last several campaigns to funnel thousands of dollars into Democratic campaign chests through "voluntary" contributions. Thousands more came from labor organizations in other parts of the country with a suddenly whetted interest in the identity of the governor of Wisconsin and other officers having local responsibilities and functions. We doubt the propriety of such investments, as we would doubt the propriety of contributions by New York or Pittsburgh corporations to Wisconsin election campaigns. But proposing a compulsory contribution from the labor union member is something quite different.

Humphrey Has Helped Political Ambitions

From The Greensboro, N.C. Daily News
Nobody blames Sen. Hubert Humphrey for making what capital — political or otherwise — he could out of his 8-hour interview with Nikita Khrushchev. It was a remarkable feat. The senator got more out of Khrushchev than any other visiting American dignitary, including Stevenson or Lippmann. The interview began casually in midafternoon, and on Khrushchev's insistence, lasted until 11:30 p.m. There was time out for dinner and a trip to the Tavora, but otherwise Khrushchev and his sharp, gregarious friend kept up the chatter continuously. Any encounter between two such talking machines was bound to turn into a conversational marathon. It did. Hubert Humphrey's trouble lay not in remembering what happened—or probing at every available opening—but in deciding after he left Russia exactly how much to reveal of his talk-fest. He held out on immediately releasing details of a confidential message Khrushchev sent President Eisenhower. Then, however, under press prodding, the Minnesota whirlwind began tossing one tidbit of information after another—a sort of verbal strip tease. Now word has gotten out that Khrushchev's message to the White House concerned missiles and Russia's newest achievements in that field. Senator Humphrey is neither confirming nor denying the specific reports—which, in effect, goes a long way toward confirming them. Of course, the word was bound to get out. Americans love secrets, and the minute Senator Humphrey put the secret label on his information it took o added significance. Our only complaint with the Humphrey gambit lies in whether he said too little or too much about his confidential message. Why mention it at all, in advance, if the purpose was to let it reach the president's ears first? Ah, there is a reason for this, and it's no secret: Dem-

English Takes Place in World

From The Kansas City Star
The important change in the postwar years is the extent to which English is spoken, and as a form of communication between those of other nationalities. In Palermo, a French woman speaks to hotel employees in English. In Florence Cubans handle over price in English. In Hamburg, an Indian and a German argue politics in English. To stimulate this trend, the Ford Foundation has announced grants of $600,000 to expand and improve the teaching of English as a second language. This money will be used to upgrade the quality of instruction, chiefly in Africa and Asia. It is now being predicted that only extreme national pride or a complete collapse of the American economy, both unlikely, can prevent (the English language) from becoming the accepted second language in most countries of the world. ocrat Hubert Humphrey is running like all get-out for the 1960 presidential nomination. And secret or no secret, Senator Humphrey made giant strides in that direction by charming Khrushchev,

Writer Doesn't Understand What Farmers are Complaining About

Editor, Post-Crescent:
This is a reply to the letter which was printed in last Tuesday's paper. It was signed as a Former Farmer's Wife. I think it is very admirable the way this person is such a staunch adherent to the cause of the tillers of the soil (farmer). She quoted practically a whole story out of Cappers Farmer. Some people believe everything they see in print, they fail to realize that many of the articles that have been published have a purpose. Some times this purpose is achieved by distorting the facts or by merely leaving out a few items. That article which she quoted sounded more like a crying towel than anything else. I think articles like that one should be scrutinized before taken for its face value. It is practically a national trait of the farmer to broadcast his troubles. We are told how terribly hard they work, how much they get paid, the long hours they put in, and how excessively expensive every thing is that they have to buy. It's about time they realize that just because you don't live on a farm that you are leading a life of leisure, luxury, and we are definitely not a class of people who could be called lotus eaters. I'm sure the farmer has some good sides to his sad story. But it's things like that you never hear about. They never mention that a farmer is his own boss, he works when he wants to and as hard as he wants to. Now the farm is known practically as a business which is run by pushing buttons. We also hear time and again how the government pays no attention to the farmer. If this was true then why was the soil bank set up, why are there such things as price supports. Every year it costs the government nearly a billion dollars to store the surplus which was built up by the farmer. Both our state and federal governments have passed laws which make it easier for the farmer to sell his products. So why is it they make it sound like their life is nothing but hard work from which they gain nothing. I come from a farming area Kimberly

Under the Capital Dome
States are Sovereign Only in Our Text Books

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison—There was a revealing note in the solemn discussion, at one of the first of Gov. Gaylord Nelson's "cabinet" meetings, of the problems of state government representation before the national government at Washington. The governor has summoned the major department administrators of the state government to meet with him each Monday morning at the unseasonable — in capital practice — hour of 7:30 a.m. Thus far they have talked about the ideal of free public information, which produced a whole some agreement, about such housekeeping matters as state employees' hospital insurance, and about the new administration's notions for reshuffling some of the departmental organizational patterns. Then the other morning the agenda opened the discussion about relations with the national government. The eager response of some of the department chieftains who didn't have much to say on the other topics tells a good deal about the situation of the theoretically sovereign state government in the politics of mid-century. THE MIRAGE The idea of an independent state government is a delusion, and each one of these men knows it, although few of them could summon up the candor to admit it. These are state servants, sworn under state laws, using state powers and serving a strictly state constituency and responsible to elective state officers. But the principal figures among them are at least as concerned, with respect to their own program and responsibilities, with what goes on in the congress as with what goes on in the state's own legislature. Some of them, indeed, are more concerned with the Washington political developments than those at home. They have long since gotten used to the idea of federal control, federal sovereignty, and federal dollars. A brief catalog of the state officials to whom Washington legislation and Washington money is critical: George Watson, of the state department of public instruction. Dr. Carl N. Neupert, of the state department of health. Thomas K. Jordan, of the state department of aeronautics, the heads of the state colleges and the state university. Clarence N. Greiber, of the state department of vocational and adult education. Harold Plummer of the state highway department. Donald N. McDowell of the state department of agriculture, and others. McDowell has shown more consternation about reduction of federal aids to his agency than about anything pointed to the Wisconsin junior state fair board. The new vice chairman of the Appleton Girl Scout district committee was Mrs. Earle Fraser. Armin Paff, Neenah high graduate who took up boxing at the University of Wisconsin and who surprised most everyone — including his dad — by winning in the contender's tournament and reaching the finals of the all-university tournament, received praise for his showing as a 125-pounder.

that has happened in his own bailiwick lately. Without federal aids, the Greiber, Jordan and Neupert programs would shrink embarrassingly. Plummer's proud super-highway program would wither away, if he didn't have a Washington pipe-line for money. LOBBYIST To the realist, the state government bureaucracy has become to a profound degree an outpost of the federal spending power. At the governor's office the other day there was a tentative discussion about the advisability of a paid, permanent and official Wisconsin representative in Washington, to make the arguments for the dozens of state officers who now are traveling to the national capital more frequently each month in deference to the federal power in everyday affairs. Some of the other states have such representatives, who are actually "lobbyists", if the district attorney will pardon the word. Some of the principal cities of the country have them. Wisconsin will have one some day soon, in the inevitable course of events. The functionary will be justified, it may be guessed, on the basis of saving expense accounts, which are formidable and perhaps unparadonable under the present situation. And when Wisconsin names him, it will be conceding that the state's independence in the federal union has been surrendered. Sovereignty will survive only in the high school text books. Difficult to Set Standard for Book Banning From The Montreal Star In Omaha, Neb., a judge recently handed down a decision that the novel "Peyton Place" is obscene and its local sale a violation of a city ordinance. He said that reading the book "should leave little doubt in the mind of any person who can read the English language" that the novel was obscene. Here in Canada, our tariff board, made up of persons all of whom undoubtedly can read the English language, came to the conclusion that "Peyton Place" was not obscene. We mention these contrasted views in order to point up the difficulty of creating any effective general standard of judgment in such matters. It is easy enough to ban. The trouble is that censorship tends to breed too much restriction. Dependent Children Aid Payment in State Second Highest in U.S. From The Wisconsin Tax News Family payments in aid to dependent children programs were second highest in the nation in Wisconsin in November according to the federal department of health, education and welfare. Wisconsin's average family payment was $161.90, exceeded by only California's $162.87, compared to a national average of $145.41. The city of Milwaukee's average relief grant of $113.25 was highest in the nation in November, the federal agency said. The average among the major cities of the nation was $86.97 for general relief in November. On a statewide basis the average monthly general assistance grant in Wisconsin ranked fourth nationally, exceeded by New Jersey $97.51, Michigan 90.90 and New York $90.67. The average payment nationally was $63.94. GRIN AND BEAR IT By Lichty

Replaces George Nader When Program Moves to New York on Friday, Feb. 27

BY JINGO

Lee Philips will play the title role in "Ellery Queen," replacing George Nader, when the mystery series moves from Hollywood to New York Friday, Feb. 27.

Philips most recently starred in the motion pictures "Peyton Place" and "The Hunters." On Broadway he appeared in "Wedding Breakfast" and "Middle of the Night," which he has just finished filming, as well.

Compulsive gambling is the subject of "House of Cards," tonight's "Circle Theater" drama. "The Raider," Thursday's "Playhouse 90," is a story of a proxy battle to gain control of a giant corporation. Stars include Paul Douglas, Rod Taylor, Leif Erickson, Donald Crisp, Frank Lovejoy and Leon Ames. J. Carroll Naish stars as a concertina-playing bandit in tonight's "Wagon Train" episode.

Arthur Godfrey and Connie Francis are Pat Boone's guests Thursday night. The "I Love Lucy" rerun Thursday night features Harpo Marx as guest. Pro Football Stars Jack Elena, Johnny Olszewski and Louis Elias have bit parts in tonight's "Ozzie and Harriet" chapter. Rita Moreno and Chill Wills enliven the "Trackdown" story tonight. Van Johnson plays a notorious gunman and ex-con in "Zane Grey Theater" Thursday night.

Tuesday night's "Sugarfoot" tale was directed by Paul Henreid, once a big movie star. He also was director for next Sunday's "Maverick" show. Fred MacMurray has signed for a movie titled "Face of a Fugitive." Release date for "Maggie's Arabian Nights," in which Mrs. Bing Crosby is featured, is late this year. Cliff Robertson and Ernest Borgnine will co-star in "Ten Years a Counterspy," the Boris Morros true life spy tale.

Paul Muni, David Wayne and Betsy Palmer head the cast of Columbia Picture's "The Last Angry Man." Cornel Wilde's next movie will be "Dancing Queen," a Cinemascope thing for an independent company. Janet Blair, John Raitt and Edie Adams are set for a non-Dinah Shore show in Dinah's Sunday night time slot March 29. Ty Hardin will be placed in a series called "Corral" when Clint Walker returns to "Cheyenne" next fall.

Edna Ferber's latest book "Ice Palace" will be made into a movie. She grew up in Appleton. They're billing Ricky Nelson's role in "Rio Bravo" as his first movie, but it's not. He appeared in two Nelson family type pictures as a young boy. Maureen

E. R. Murrow To Take Year Off for Travel

Arthur Godfrey to Take Over 'Person to Person' Program

New York — Edward R. Murrow will take a year's leave of absence from the Columbia Broadcasting system effective July 1.

He said in a letter to CBS President Frank Stanton that his contract contains a provision for leave, and Murrow said his only reason for seeking it is to take time for travel and reflection. Stanton replied that the network was happy to grant the leave and looked forward to his return.

The network announced today that Arthur Godfrey will conduct the interviews on "Person to Person" during the 1950-1951 season. Murrow will continue his program "Small World" on a reduced basis during his leave of absence.

He will discontinue his documentaries, his nightly radio program of news and commentary.

Murrow's move followed reports of strained relations between him and CBS officials. It was reported that his leave has nothing to do with his health nor with the controversy that followed a recent radio program on prostitution.

"For more than 20 years," Murrow wrote to Stanton, "I have contended that, if he can, and if his employers would permit it, any reporter or analyst should take a year off somewhere around the age of 50 to do a little contemplating and a lot of leisurely traveling and reading and listening and keep silent for a spell."

Murrow, 50, has been with CBS since 1935. He first gained prominence by his low-keyed reports of England's bravery during the Battle of Britain.

After the war he was named a vice president of CBS, and a board member. After two years he decided to devote his time to reporting.

In 1951 he began the documentary series "See It Now." Last July, without announcement, the series finished its run.

Murrow has been outspoken in his criticism of much of television programming, commenting at one time that "if Hollywood were to run out of Indians, the program schedules would be mangled beyond all recognition."

Last October, in a speech to the Radio Television News Directors association convention in Chicago, Murrow appealed to the industry to present more significant news and public information programs during prime broadcasting hours.

Withholding Plan Up For Department Study

der and are not paying Wisconsin income taxes.

Thirteen states now have a withholding plan and at least 10 others are considering one. Some also withhold for non-residents only.

Opposition Indicated

The proposal is expected to run into vigorous opposition from Republicans who control the senate, 20-12. Democrats hope to overcome this disadvantage by bringing the bill out for debate around April 15, the time most Wisconsin taxpayers are mailing checks with their 1958 state income tax returns.

One of the main opponents is expected to be Sen. William Draheim, R-Neenah. A introduced in the legislature was written by a Republican in the 1955 session. Mrs. Sylvia H. Raible, a Chippewa Falls assemblywoman, offered the bill. It was killed several days later.

Major Criticisms

One serious criticism leveled at tax withholding is that many taxpayers simply forget about it and regard their take home pay as the real pay. On the corporate level, this can lead many workers to think they are costing their employer considerably less than he knows they are and therefore has a bearing on some labor-management disputes and negotiations.

On the governmental level this lack of realization by some taxpayers of what they are paying in taxes — according to withholding critics — lets the government spend more and tax more than it otherwise might.

It is not known whether Gov. Gaylord Nelson is con-so-called maverick and co-chairman of the finance committee.

Business groups are expected to put up vigorous opposition.

The only withholding bill in- nected with the bill. He has said he has reservations about withholding because of certain administrative onstacles. Lt. Gov. Philo Nash and several other leading Democrats have pledged their support, however.

Easier Payments

Democrats are on record in their 1958 platform to consider withholding of income taxes as a way "to make payment easier." The GOP platform does not mention withholding.

Harder told the finance committee Monday that adopting a withholding plan could probably increase the number of returns filed with the department from the present 1,500,000 to about 1,750,000.

About 1,250,000 of these he said would require refunds.

Democrats have indicated they favor tying the amount deducted from an employee's check to his deduction for federal income taxes. For example the amount deducted for state taxes for those earning up to $5,000 a year would be 10 per cent of the federal tax withheld.

This would mean that if an employer deducted $10 a week for federal income taxes from an employee's check, he would deduct an additional $1 a week for state income taxes.

This money would probably be remitted to the state tax department by the employer.

Buyers of Scuttled German Navy Is Dead

Torquay, England — P — Ernest F. G. Cox, 75, who once bought most of the German navy of World War I died at his home here Sunday.

Cox bought the German warships—then at the bottom of the sea—from the British admiralty after the war. The purchase embraced 42 German vessels scuttled at Scapa Flow in 1919.

A scrap iron dealer, Cox bought the vessels on the gamble that he could raise them to the surface. By devising a number of salvage techniques he succeeded in recovering 32 of the warships, but it took him nine years.

Although it is expected to take at least two weeks to put together the first picture of the Vanguard's cloud observations, Monmouth officials said the process eventually can be refined so that information normally become available almost as soon as it is recorded.

MacMillan Trip To Russia Wins Truman Approval

Thinks Britain May Have Better Success Than U. S. Representative

BY HARRY S. TRUMAN

I hope the visit of Prime Minister Macmillan to the Kremlin results in the opening of a door for one can see no objection to the initiative of the British prime minister, Macmillan may be able to use this occasion to take soundings of the Soviet immediate intent. All recent attempts to engage in exchanges and conversations with the Kremlin have proved futile and have been subverted for propaganda purposes. Despite all the discouragements suffered by the west to date and the continuing skepticism of the Kremlin's peaceful intentions, I think the Macmillan trip is all to the good. This mission cannot be construed as arising out of weakness or division of the west, or appeasement and is one not likely to be used by the Russians for external propaganda purposes.

If the Russians have a grain of peaceful intention in their program the Macmillan visit might provide them a chance to return to constructive diplomacy where matters may be discussed quietly, without the need for waving missiles in public.

In my judgment, this approach could not now be undertaken by the president of the United States or the vice president without such a move being misunderstood and leading surely to another serious setback.

I have seen some public suggestions that the vice president undertake a trip to Moscow in return for the Mikoyan visit and address the Soviets and the Russian people with the stipulation that all of his remarks be published as given.

Could Backfire

Because of my well-known personal feelings about the vice president, I hope no one will misconstrue the conviction I have that a visit by him to Russia, particularly at this time or a visit by any other leading American official for that matter, would backfire.

There is another reason why I think a mission such as Macmillan's should be welcomed by us. I feel the situation in which we find ourselves makes it desirable for our allies to assume equal initiative in the diplomatic field provided of course that they do so in full concert and communication with all their partners.

We must realize that what we are after is not only to keep the peace but to make it durable, and at all stages to leave the door open to reason and conciliation, if we are to be met by a like attitude. And by like attitude, I do not mean flip-pant statements such as Khrushchev made recently before the Soviet party congress in Moscow when he declared that he is willing to concede victory in the cold war to the west while expecting the west to capitulate on Russian terms.

The Soviets initiated the cold war and have kept it up ever since with taunts, threats and broken agreements.

We never wanted the cold war, and we don't like it. It has diverted our economy from further expansion for peaceful purposes at home and abroad. We converted from a war economy, beginning in 1945, and achieved immediate and unprecedented success in full employment and a balanced budget. But communist aggression in Korea and elsewhere compelled us to redirect some of our economy to measures of defense at great sacrifice to our people.

Economic War

The Russians have now embarked upon an economic war against us. It is a war they cannot possibly win. They can only bring further privations to their own people. They could not win even if our own leadership failed to put to maximum use our enormous and as yet untapped industrial capacity and economic might.

Let me remind the Kremlin rulers that this would not be a struggle between socialism and capitalism but one between dictatorial state capitalism and a free enterprise system where there are laws protecting the rights and welfare of the individual. The Russians may feel confident they possess the ability and the capacity to upset the economy of the entire world. If so, they are laboring under a delusion.

Such a task is beyond their ability or that of any other single power. More and more we see that the future welfare of all mankind is based upon the free cooperation of all nations.

We have no misgivings about the industrial and economic progress of Russia. Neither are we disturbed over the dramatic strides in industry and agriculture in Red China. If the policies of Russia and Red China were aimed at peaceful cooperation with all their neighbors and for the benefit of mankind we would be the first to acclaim their achievements and extend to them fullest cooperation.

Enhance Success

Mikoyan told the Soviet party congress that peace follows trade and that nations that trade with each other are at peace.

If Mikoyan had come here not with the blandishments of trade but with a program of peace, his chances for success would have been greatly enhanced.

But Mikoyan has the mistaken belief, as do the Kremlin leaders and, I suspect, some businessmen here, that trade comes first and is a cure-all for all international differences. They believe that if you trade peace automatically follows.

Two world wars have proved that trade alone is not the road to peace.

One thing history teaches us is that dictatorships almost inevitably have led to war. From the days of Augustus Caesar the record on this is clear. In this respect, however, I think the world is getting younger, rather than older, and the will to be free is manifesting itself in every part of the world. There is comfort in the fact that in this century of the two most oppressive dictatorships in history, freedom has come to more nations and to more millions of people than has ever been known before. I hope and believe that in Russia and in China — perhaps not in my lifetime — the indomitable will in the human being to be free will triumph.

Takes Time

This immutable process of as to create a climate for peaceful international cooperation, the peace of the world would be strengthened. Success in the direction of peace in these two critical areas could produce a constructive approach to the problems in the Pacific. But let us remember that up to now the communists use words they do not mean. The principal difficulty is that where you have a government which has total control of mind as well as material things, it is hard to find many opportunities for meaningful negotiations. But limited as the opportunities may be, the statesmen of the west must be on the search and on the alert for any possible chance to advance the cause of peace. The most immediate pressing problem facing the west is the ultimatum date set by Khrushchev to abandon West Berlin. Russia would like a meeting at the summit without an agenda and we do not know for what purpose. Our experience at the summit conference at Geneva proved it a complete waste of time and effort. It only served as a stage to present Khrushchev to another such meeting we at least wait for the report of the new rulers of the Kremlin. It seems to make sense that:

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath." Artist Series Concert

Affinity Between Baroque Period, Societa Corelli

The Baroque period of music history, extending roughly from the beginnings of opera around 1600 to the death of Bach in 1750, is not only one of the most important periods of music history in terms of the development of music but one of the most interesting and relatively unexplored fields of music for present day listening.

Patricia Horn James Zuleger, Patricia Horn Engaged to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rehfeldt, 827 W. Lorain street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Horn, to James L. Zuleger, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Leist, Hortonville.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Appleton High school and is employed by Aid Association for Lutherans. Mr. Zuleger graduated from Bondurant high school. He is a marine sergeant, stationed at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Thursday at the Lawrence Memorial chapel as part of the Community Artist series. Arcangelo Corelli, famous Italian violinist, teacher, and composer of the last part of the 17th century, from whom the Societa gets its name, was one of the first great composers to capitalize on the recently invented violin family and to help establish the string orchestra as a separate and self-sufficient medium.

The first work on their program, popularly known as the "Christmas Concerto," derives its Yuletide quality from the 6-8 siciliano rhythm of its last movement, a pastoral rhythmic pattern to be found in the nativity passages of the "Messiah" and in countless other similar works dealing with the birth of Christ.

Progressive Composer Benedetto Marcello, whose "Concerto Grosso, Opus. 1, No. 4, in F Major," is featured, was a lawyer and poet as well as a composer. He was a member of a group of progressive composers who admired and emulated the concerto style of Vivaldi and was later to prove of considerable influence on the instrumental style of Bach and Handel.

Antonio Vivaldi's music has had a recent surge of popularity in this country, perhaps sparked by its use in the colorful Italian film, "The Golden Coach," which helped introduce Anna Magnani to American movie audiences several years ago.

With the increased availability of his music through long-playing records, Vivaldi's name is now a familiar one to all listeners of serious music. Appleton audiences still recall the performance of Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons" by the I Musici group on this stage three years ago.

Work By Vivaldi Bach was a great admirer of Vivaldi and as a young leger transcribed several of his concertos for the organ repertoire but to learn more of Vivaldi's technique of composition, Vivaldi's "Concerto in A Major" will be performed by the Societa.

The classical and contemporary works by Boccherini and Britten stand in contrast to the Baroque compositions. Luigi Boccherini, one of the few contemporaries of Mozart and Haydn whose name is well known to us, was himself a notable cellist.

Silvano Zuccarini, the evening's soloist, is an internationally renowned performer and a pupil of the world famous Gaspar Cassado. His artistic successes in Europe, the United States, Canada and Cuba have established him as one of the most outstanding virtuosos before the public today. He has chosen to do Boccherini's "Concerto in D Major for Cello and Strings."

"Simple Symphony" Benjamin Britten is one of the best known and widely performed of contemporary English composers. His "Simple Symphony" is one of his first works, conceived in 1923 at the age of ten and revised and performed for the first time eleven years later.

Tickets for the fourth Artist series concerts are still available at Bellings pharmacy.

Ice-Age Approach to Gal Receives Ann's Warm Advice

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a sophomore in college, age 19. I like girls and girls like me. I'm not bad-looking, enjoy handball, tennis and golf and I've never lacked friends, either male or female.

So what's my problem? I'll be honest: I've never been able to kiss a girl. Please understand I am perfectly normal. I just can't bring myself to this point.

Now I'm really concerned because the young lady I've been dating since September gave me the air. Her last words were "You're ice-age approach to romance is weird. Send me a postcard from the North Pole."

My mother always pounded into my head the notion that I must respect girls. The thought that I might hurt a girl's reputation or defile her in any way scares me to death. I'm plenty mixed up and I know it. Can you help me?"—YALE '62 mor in the morning.) But she really sizzles when I bring a paper, magazine or book to the dinner table.

I prefer good literature to the senseless chatter of our three little kids. If I want to read at my own dinner table in my own home, isn't this MY privilege? How about it?—OX-CAL.

Dear OX: There's more involved here than whether or not you should be permitted to read at the dinner table. The REAL problem is you can't tolerate your family. The literature you lug to the table serves as a wall to keep them away from you.

Of course three little kids are going to indulge in senseless chatter. What were you talking about when you were their age—Einstein's theory of relativity?

Fathers who can't stand their kids when they're young and expect them to be palsy-walsy when they "get sense" are in for a rude awakening. The ability to communicate starts in the cradle.

Throw away that reading material tonight, Dad, and introduce yourself to your family.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your answer to "On Trial Forever" was wonderful. I know about these things because I served a prison term and had to come home and face my family and friends.

It takes a great deal of compassion for an employer to hire a man with a prison record, especially if dishonesty was involved. But there ARE such men in this world, and I hope "On Trial Forever" is as fortunate as I was, in meeting them.

I came home filled with fear and misgivings. But the minute I entered my church and felt the warm clasp of friendly hands and heard "Welcome home" and "Mighty glad to see you" I knew it was going to be all right. This world is full of good people, so keep looking "On Trial"—and don't lose faith. Good luck to you.—D. J. P.

Dear Yale: It's nice that your mother taught you to respect girls. And it's too bad she failed to teach you the difference between an honest, normal expression of affection and "defiling" a girl.

If at 19 you are so paralyzed by inhibitions that you are unable to kiss the girl you've been dating for five months, you need professional help.

It may take a great deal of time, money and effort, to remove this klunker from your thinker, but it'll be well worth it. One who has been pounded for years about "evils" of sex can't expect to develop a healthy approach to life overnight. Good luck.

DEAR ANN: Is it a crime to read at the dinner table? My wife doesn't mind if I look at a newspaper at breakfast (in fact, she thinks it's a good idea because no one in our house is in a very good hu-

Almost everybody in this enlightened age of contract bridge knows and uses the suit-preference signal, but this fact is something of a mixed blessing. The signal is an excellent, even an indispensable, device, but the best tools can be misused. Here's proof:

very bad; he should have bid four no trump, Blackwood, to check on aces.

West, on the good chance of finding his partner with a singleton club, opened the ace of that suit and followed up with the club three. East ruffed, but he then made an absurd return. He had very carefully scrutinized the low rank of West's second club play—the three-spot—and, convinced from this that West wanted a return of the lower side suit, East "obediently" laid back a diamond. This, of course, was very soothing to declarer, who soon got rid of his losing spade.

West, who was naturally a bit irked, asked East why he hadn't returned a spade, which not only would have given West his spade ace but also resulted in a second club ruff, and a two-trick defeat of the contract.

East said that he couldn't tell that the club three was West's highest card in the suit, aside from the ace, and that he (East) had "naturally" read it as a suit-preference signal.

There, in a nutshell, is one reason why this signal should be used more sparingly by the average player. East should have realized that West's club three had no special significance. East had no good reason to assume that West was void of diamonds.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

What goes on the floor where there are small children in the house—not too much money—but a definite eye for what's attractive in home decoration? This question is asked often, and it calls for something pretty special in an answer. One of the best is a fiber rug.

Fiber rugs are hardy, are certainly inexpensive and keep up with a favorite style trend of today. The tweedy weaves that make them so right with today's young family furniture also seem to swallow the evidence of heavy traffic and spots from extra soil or wear. And the tweeds in their handsome color mixtures are wonderfully practical for color scheming—they help to tie together the hit-and-miss colors of other furnishings into a scheme, and schemes are easy to change without changing the floor as first one of the rug's shades is repeated and then another. The walls are sage green. Carpeting is available as well as room size and smaller rugs.

Mrs. W. E. "We've always been proud of the real antique in our family, a chest of most unusual design, carved and finished with a heavy and elaborate with a sheer if it's painted, or brass handle. I suppose it's worth a lot of money because we certainly wouldn't or narrow wood slat shade to part with it, but can you tell me how to find out something about its value?"

A study of books on antiques often discovers a similar piece which gives some idea of the rarity of what you own. But dollar and cents value depends on the market, on what an antique dealer or collector is willing to pay for it. You might ask a dealer to look at the chest, but your book research should be satisfaction enough since you don't wish to sell it, and you may find out very interesting things about its origin and workmanship.

GOP Failed in State Planning, Nash Says

Racine.—Republican administrations in Wisconsin failed to provide long range planning, Lt. Gov. Philo Nash declared Monday night.

Speaking to Racine county Democrats, Nash said, "The tax structure, building program and departmental organization have been thrown together in a helter skelter way without adequate long range planning; in short, without thinking ahead."

He said Gov. Gaylord Nelson plans to remedy this with a "bare bones" first-year budget, a tax impact study, a long range building program and proposals for government reorganization.

Unusual Teachers Aid Absent-Minded In Memory Classes

New York.—It's awful to be married to a memory expert when you can't even remember your best friend's name.

"I literally had to take a memory course to save my marriage," says small, alert Lotte Furst. "I was working in a pharmacy when I met my husband, Dr. Bruno Furst, in our home town of Frankfurt, Germany. He was a lawyer and psychiatrist, and after our marriage I joined him in his law office, doing court stenography and other office chores."

Couldn't Remember

"Everything was fine, except I never could remember anything, and he never forgot anything. Our biggest client would come in and I wouldn't remember his name. I'd forget to order the groceries and send out the laundry. It was pretty painful for both of us."

One day after Lotte had forgotten they were having guests for dinner, her husband suggested that she'd better take a course in memory training. In fact, he was teaching such a course. It was all very handy.

Graduated With Honors

Lotte graduated with honors, and has been helping her husband ever since in teaching others to remember. They teach together at the Brooklyn college of Adult Education, and in their own school of memory and concentration in Manhattan.

"It's all a matter of learning how to concentrate and organize your mind. Many people can't remember anything because they have too many things on their minds at once. Their bad memories are results of bad habits of thinking."

Several Methods

The Fursts have several methods of memory training, depending on whether the students "eye - minded," "ear - minded" or "motor-minded."

If you remember by a process of mental pictures, you are eye-minded, explains Lotte, and you will have little trouble in remembering things you read.

If you remember best the things you hear, you should learn through lectures.

If you are motor-minded,

The sucking reflex appears soon after birth. A slight stroking of the lips or cheek will make the baby turn his head toward what he feels, grab for it with his mouth and begin to suck. The sucking reflex appears most readily when he is hungry. It is a great mistake to try to open his mouth forcibly by pressing on both his cheeks and poke a nipple into his mouth.

This behavior on the part of nurse or mother just confuses a baby and makes it no longer adequate for his automatic responses to the operation. When you are feeding a baby in the first few days of life, keep your hands away from his face. Adjust the nipple so that he can get it and let him suck.

The sucking reflex, like crying, is most useful to our baby. He also has reflex responses that do not seem to have value to him, but which doubtless are hangovers from his dim ancestral past.

A baby will grasp when something touches the inside of his hands. In fact he will hold on so hard and fast that his whole weight can be supported by his hands. This reflex fades out after a few months.

Automatic Responses
When a newborn is supported horizontal on his abdomen he will perform swimming movements. If he is held upright, his toe touching a firm surface, he will move his legs as though he were walking. These two reflexes disappear after a few weeks and then come back in more mature form later on.

The startle reflex is always noticeable. A newborn goes into a spasm of activity when disturbed by a loud noise or a loss of balance. His whole body stiffens out, then the arms close together as in an embrace, his face assumes an agonized expression and he cries.

All newborns show this automatic response. It doesn't mean (as some mothers think) that the baby is unduly nervous. In fact if a baby fails to show this startle reflex we are worried about the adequacy of his nervous system.

Supervisors Reject Any County Change

Modernizing Idea Fails by 30 to 15 Vote at Green Bay

Green Bay—A request for support of a plan which would give individual counties the option of modernizing their government structure was brushed aside by the Brown county board Tuesday by a 30 to 15 vote.

The argument that the structure of county government set up 100 years ago is no longer adequate for present county operations was met by the practical consideration that county boards might be reduced in size and that rural municipalities might lose their present unit representation on county boards. The latter point was more important as far as the Brown county board was concerned.

Only three supervisors from units other than city wards or suburban towns voted for the idea. Ten Green Bay supervisors joined in opposing the resolution.

The resolution was presented by a special board citizens committee named last fall to report on a proposal to eliminate elective jobs of coroner, sheriff and surveyor and to increase the terms of other elective offices from two to four years.

The committee agreed last week that a resolution now before the legislature would gain three objectives.

Cites Need
Atty. Fred Kaftan, a member of the special committee, argued the need for a chief executive in a county like Brown—indicated by such operations as the arena, golf course and airport. He pointed out that the resolution contains the safeguards of requiring referendums before any structure change would become possible.

Two supervisors, Frank Geurts and Louis Ambrosius, viewed the proposal as a danger to present unit representation on county boards. They predicted rural areas would lose their voice in county affairs.

Supv. Clarence Vandermus and Francis Leanna, a frequent critic of the powers of sheriffs in Wisconsin, said they could not see anything

Outagamie Board Pays $4,000 for Port Engineering

The Outagamie county board Tuesday approved a $4,000 payment to the state aeronautical commission for preliminary engineering work at the county airport. Seven supervisors voted present on the appropriation.

The state asked for the money for studies which so far have revealed the need to remove obstructions to an airport clear zone. The obstructions include houses, silos, antennas, power poles and trees. It is the first request for funds for the current modernizing program at the port.

System of Naming Inefficient; Charlie Likes Old Methods Best

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The recent treatise here on the subject of Indian names may have moved you to some levity, but the laugh is on you. Reason: our system of naming is silly. It doesn't do any work for us. It does not, as in the case of many Indian names, even characterize us.

Our names came to us by accident. We retain them and simply perpetuate the accident or circumstance by which our forefathers were named.

In early times people had but one name. The Bible, oldest and most respected of our books, shows that, with few exceptions, people had only one monicker. This led to confusion and further identification was necessary. Usually it was made by such means as these: "Joseph of Nazareth," or "Joseph, the son of Samuel."

In the western part of Europe and in the British isles, that same system of nomenclature was employed. If there were more than one Richard and this caused confusion, a simple, partially descriptive, nickname would be applied as in "Richard, the Lion Hearted," or Richard, the meek," or "Richard, the son of James."

In humbler life, the nickname system was adopted, too. The many persons named "John," for example were more acutely identified by such methods as this: "John, the smith," "John, the carpenter," "John, the cooper," "John, the baker" and so on.

Largest Family

The fact that there are so many members of the Smith "family" today, is because the word "smith" was once used as a term for any craftsman who employed a hammer. As a result, if your name is Smith, you are a member of the largest family in England, America, Scotland and Wales.

HEALTH QUERIES ANSWERED

BY J. A. PANNECK, Chiropractor
115 E. College Ave.
Appleton

It has long been known that all nerve tissues of the body are closely woven through a network of nerve fibers which center the spinal cord and the brain. These nerve fibers carry sensations that give the necessary energy for the functions of the respective organs and glands. It has also been known that interference in the transmission of nerve energy from the brain to the tissue cells will cause organs of the body to function improperly. Research departments with their constantly improving methods have recently completed more and more evidence of patients who have suffered with nerve tension or nervous exhaustion. The inability to relax is due to muscular contraction particularly around the base of the head and along the side of the neck. Instruments have been developed to locate and pinpoint points of pressure along the spinal column, for we all know that for every cause there is an effect or symptom. Only when the cause of pressure is removed can the patient return to normalcy. The doctor of chiropractic offers the one best hope for the relief of nervous tension. Call on your family chiropractor. Health queries pertaining to your health problems will be answered through this paper.

had a white house—would be Joseph White.

William who lived near the Bishop's fence, for another example, would be called "William at the Bishop's Gate," and then, later, "William Bishop," or "William Gates."

Accidental System

So it is that we who consider ourselves masters of social detail have so accidental a system for bearing our identities into history!

Many of us were named for personal peculiarities or even complexions of our forebears. In this group of surnames are the Heaviesides, Broadheads, Stouts, Strongs, Blacks, Whites, Greys, Browns, Armstrongs.

You make your own interpretations on those early Sillimans, Doolittles, Pennyfeathers, Schwartzkopfs (black head).

Don't make fun of the Shuffbottom name, though, or Mr. Coward. The forebear of Shuffbottom probably owned some shawfield bottomland—a garden in a vale. The Coward of history undoubtedly held an important position in his community—a ward to the cows.

But names of occupations—like Cook, Brewer, Butler, Groom, Gardener, Forester, Glazer, Taylor, Plummer, Parker, Turner, and Chapman (merchant)—are responsible for the names of most of us.

Fathers' Sons

Such names as Johnson and Swenson and Swanson are from what you think they're from—the son of John, the son of Swen and so on.

In the same way the Germans drew their Mendelssohns, the Russians their Paulowicz (Paulson), the Scandinavians their Thorwaldsens. The Irish names like O'Conner, O'Neil and O'Grady are like examples. The O' is a corruption of UA which means a grandson, hence any descendant. Mac, in many Irish names, has been substituted but it means the same thing as O'.

The Normans used "Fitz" for the same reason. Hence Fitzsummons, Fitzpatrick.

Welsh names like Powell, Price, Pritchard, means the same. The "son" is said in the Welsh word "map." This was shortened to "ap" and then to "p." Pritchard, then, is the son of Richard.

The "ski" on so many Polish names indicates royalty or a descent therefrom. But patently there cannot be so many royal descendants. Scholars believe that parents simply added the important "ski" to the name for the sake of their children and as a means to make their lives a little more favorable.

Inefficient Method

Our system of naming people may be harmless but it is inefficient. Because one of my

Brand New Baby Isn't Helpless; He's a Lot Smarter Than You Think

Who ever said that a newborn baby was helpless? True enough, there are lots of things he cannot do for himself. He can't pull up his blanket, he can't crawl around and hunt his own food, he can't close the window, but if you think he can't take care of his needs you have another guess coming.

He can cry; he can bellow loud and long.

No other species has been endowed by old Mother Nature with the ability to demand attention from others as has a human baby.

A human baby is a completely self-centered little ancestors lived in a certain kind of house, is it sensible that I should reflect this happenstance nearly a thousand years later?

Or, is it sensible that you bear a name like Barnes which tells nothing except that an ancestor you neither know, revere nor care about may have happened to live near a barn? Or Berg because he lived near a mountain? Or Traucher or Pfeife because some ancient smoked heavily? Or Baum because there was a tree in his yard?

A much more efficient system of nomenclature was created and used by the amazing Romans of old.

On which, more later.

Ask Council to Start Closing Alton Court

Two Representatives of J. R. Whitman, Sr., Only Opponents at Informal Board Hearing

The city council tonight will be asked to start proceedings to close Alton court at the new College avenue bridge approach.

Board of public works members voted Tuesday to make the recommendation after a lengthy informal hearing at the city hall.

If the council approves, City quiet. Atty. Jury will draft legal papers and a public hearing will be called, probably in about two months.

About 35 residents of the Alton court neighborhood were on hand for the hearing.

Safety Cited
Alone in opposition to the closing was J. R. Whitman, Jr., and Franklin N. Nehs, representatives of the senior Whitman, 114 S. Alton court.

Almost all arguments for and against closing came down to the same consideration—safety.

Spokesmen in favor of closing believe the court, if left open, would carry much more traffic than it does now. Some 70 children and youths under 21 who live on the court or Alton street would be endangered and the city ultimately would face an expensive widening and resurfacing project, they say.

Whitman and Nehs believe the court will carry less traffic if left open. Each vehicle entering the closed court would have to return the same way it entered and that would increase traffic and danger to the children, they maintain. Traffic controls would be a better answer to new traffic coming from the bridge, they say.

No Trouble
Whitman and Nehs also say closing would make it difficult for emergency vehicles to get into the court and might result in loss of lives and property.

Mrs. Clarence J. West, Jr., 214 S. Rankin street, who has an interest in property on the court, said firemen had no trouble getting to her home for a fire last year even though it is at the end of a deadend street.

L. W. Empey, district high-way engineer, said he feels Aug. 16, 1873, in Mastic, Hol-closing would be in the inter-land and operated the Jacob-ests of public good, even Brothers Market at West De-though a few may be discom-moded.

Nehs replied that the public good argument doesn't apply, since the proposed closing is more for convenience than anything.

Noise Factor
Mrs. Charles L. McClure, 825 E. Alton street, whose mother, Mrs. Josephine Buchanan, lives just east of the bridge, deplored the opening because it would result in undue noise from starts and stops and annoyance from street and traffic lights.

Mrs. Abbott Byfield, 808 E. Alton street, also touched on the noise factor, saying most people bought homes in the neighborhood because it was quiet.

Empey reported about 15 per cent of motorists will pay no attention to traffic con-trols. "It's a fact of life," he said.

Atty. John D. Stein, attorney representing Fred Herbolzheimer, 126 S. Alton court, questioned Nehs' earlier claim that owners of more than a third of the property abut-ting on the court oppose the closing. He said the figure should be 32 per cent.

Empey Undecided
(If more than a third op-pose, closing will be impos-sible because of a state law.)

Whether closing the court would save some boulevard and trees in the 900 block on E. College avenue was not an-swered clearly by Empey.

He said that if the court stays open he hasn't decided whether the state will require safety islands and a wider pavement. The decision would take some soul-searching, he said, because of the increased hazard and accident possibil-ities.

Ald. Ervin J. Bogan said the court will be used as a short cut, if left open, for workers going to Western Condensing company and other plants in the industrial flats.

Two other streets which would have an intersection on the approach — N. Catherine and Green Bay road—already have been voted closed by the council. There have not been, however, any steps to vacate certain portions of them. The two streets will be connected.

Grocery Store Owner At West DePere Dies

John Jacobs, 85, 417 Fourth street, West DePere, a gro-cery store operator, died at 4:45 a.m. Tuesday after a short illness. Jacobs was born Aug. 16, 1873, in Mastic, Hol-closing would be in the inter-land and operated the Jacob-ests of public good, even Brothers Market at West De-though a few may be discom-moded.

Friends may call at the Ryan Funeral home, DePere, tonight. Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Boniface Catholic church, West DePere, with burial in the parish cemetery.

Survivors include three sons, Henry, Alfred and Norbert, all of DePere; four daugh-ters, Mrs. Paul Miskella and Mrs. Urban Brennan, De-Pere; Mrs. George Hartman, Juneau and Mrs. William Fitzpatrick, Little Chute; 33 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Postpone Open House

Paper Valley Model Rail-road club has postponed its Friday open house to Friday, March 30, in the clubrooms at 723 S. Oneida street. The monthly event is being can-celled because the electric control board is undergoing renovation.

Heart Sunday Will be Observed This weekend and workers have been busy preparing the block-to-block solicitation. Over 600 block workers will be knocking on doors Sunday. Left to right, Mrs. Harry Trettien, block worker, and Mrs. Mell Buxton, one of 35 captains, receive heart folders and identifying red heart pins from Mrs. Ray Monteith, an area captain.

chief spokesmen of the new Democratic state administra-tion.

(Most Democrats in the leg-islature, fearful of being re-quired to boost income tax-rates to finance soaring state expenditures, favor a with-holding law as a means of easing the pain of such in-creases. About 10 states have such laws, patterned after the established system of the federal government. Gov. Nelson says he is investigating such a proposal, but has not yet con-cluded whether to support it.)

Harder repeated what he has said on earlier occasions when his views were solicited, and he cited the beliefs of Prof. Harold Groves, a pro-Democratic University of Wis-consin tax specialist who is now a Nelson administration consultant, to back up his con-tention.

Collection Cost Up
He said the gains in collec-tions through payroll deduc-tions might be as much as a million dollars a year, or less than one per cent, but that the gain would be consumed in considerably increased costs of enforcement. He would need many more men to make the computations and the re-funds under such a system, he said.

As if to point up the effi-ciency of the present system of collections once a year di-rectly from taxpayers, the commissioner reported that his auditors last year yielded more than $5,000,000 through examination and investigation of income tax returns filed by persons and corporations.

He now has more than 300 such examiners, the largest corps in history, and all past governors and legislatures have granted more men when-ever he asked for them and found them available in the labor market, he went on.

More Taxpayers
Income taxpayers are now increasing at the rate of about 25,000 a year, he said. There are now about 1,500,000 of them in the state.

Harder acknowledged that other states have adopted the withholding system of income tax administration, but he said the Wisconsin system is different and more complex because the state shares its receipts with local units of government.

Annual Dog Damages Debate Moves Board, Settles Nothing

The annual debate on dog damages was held by Outagamie county supervisors Tuesday.

Nothing, as usual, was changed. Also as usual, the board indicated the state law setting up dog damage payments should be changed.

This year's dog claims by 50 individuals totalled $2,061.22 — the board allowed $1,450.26, cutting $610.96 from the claims.

The claims are more than twice the $690.47 allowed last year to 41 claimants. Money to pay the claims comes from the sale of dog licenses in the county.

The discussion, as usual, was on why chicken damag-es are figured on "old hens" worth about nothing," in-stead of on pullets, which are always worth more than damage allowed.

Freedom Supv. Joseph Weyers commented, "We've argued this for 15 years and there isn't any answer."

The discussion moved Weyers to comment upon the recent running verbal battle between the Outagamie County Humane soci-ety and an Appleton citizens group also dedicated to help-ing dogs.

"It isn't right for the Post-Crescent to publish all those stories criticizing the coun-ty," declared Weyers.

Second Victim Of Crash Dies

Milwaukee Woman Hurt in Saturday Collision on 45

Mrs. Don Larson, 39, Mil-waukee, died Tuesday night of injuries suffered in a 2-car crash Saturday on Highway 45 west of Greenville. The ac-cident earlier claimed the life of Rueben Arndt, 47, Marion.

Mrs. Larson never regained consciousness. Her husband, also seriously injured, has not regained consciousness either but is improving at Appleton Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Larson became the fifth fatality of last weekend's death-studded icy roads in Outagamie county and the sixth this year in the county.

She was a passenger in her husband's car when it skid-ded after passing a light truck and collided nearly head-on with Arndt's car.

Arndt died instantly. Arndt's passenger, his brother, John, Jr., is in good condition in New London Community hos-pital.

The Larson couple was headed for White Lake for skeet shooting at the time of the accident. Survivors of Mrs. Larson are her husband and a son, Carl, also of Mil-waukee. Funeral arrange-ments are being made by a Milwaukee funeral home.

Mills Death
The widow of Russell Mills, Seymour, who died Sunday morning when the car his wife was driving skidded into the path of a truck on County Trunk C north of Seymour, is reported in good condition at St. Vincent hospital, Green Bay. The couple's four chil-dren also were hospitalized.

One has been released and the others are reported in good condition. They range in age from 1 to 11. The driver of the truck received minor injuries.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said today an inquest is planned in the Larson-Arndt crash.

City to Plan Pool Before Sewage Plant

Outlook Disclosed To Works Board by Director Duszynski

The city will hold off hiring a consultant for building a more than $500,000 secondary sewage treatment plant until after a consultant is hired for the proposed south side swim-ming pool.

This was the report Tues-day to the board of public works by Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski.

(Applications for the pool consultant's job are due at city hall March 1. They will take some time for the works board to study before an award of the design job is made.)

(The outlook for the pool now indicates a fall bid date for construction. Whether it will be ready for opening at the start of the 1960 season is questionable.)

July 1 Deadline
The plan of action for the sewage plant project was re-vealed in response to a letter from the state board of health's water pollution committee.

The letter informed the city that applications for federal aid on the project will have to be in the committee's hands by July 1 if the city is to get aid in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1960.

Duszynski reported that if the city hired the consultant now it probably would be im-possible to obtain all the sup-porting information and pre-liminary plans required for formal application.

The city is under state health board orders to have the plant underway by 1962.

Board Wants Plats Sent To Water Commission

Deadend Mains in Newer Subdivisions Causing Trouble, Utility Complains

All plats should be studied by the water commission be-fore the city council approves them, the board of public works will tell the council to-night.

Water department officials Tuesday reported to the board that bypassing of the commis-sion in the plat approval pro-cess has resulted in undesir-able "deadends" in some new-er plats.

It seems to us that most of the difficulty," said James B. Wagg, commission chairman, in a letter, "is caused by the fact that these plats are ac-cepted without enough thought streets, particularly in an east and west direction."

Lack of east-west streets, and mains, said Henry W. Ful-ker, water distribution super-intendent, means water can-not be circulated correctly. Poor service and dirty water at the deadends results. His crew, he said, has to flush some of these deadends two or three times a week.

Eventually Vanish
Director of Public Works Duszynski said he doubts that the council wants to hold up platting until courts are elim-inated because some day, when the area around the trouble spots is built up, the problems will have vanished.

But, he agreed, it would be a good idea to have the water commission informed of (mu-nicipal) office," commented what's coming so that it can several supervisors. The board took no action on might eliminate deadends. Wagg specifically called at-books.

Dist. Atty. George Greisch has racked up a first for Outagamie county. Kaukauna Supv. Russell De La Hunt in-dicated Tuesday before the county board.

The courts and administra-tion of justice committee, of which De La Hunt is a mem-ber, has refused for months to approve a $400 set of Wis-consin Annotations (legal books) for Greisch. Finally, De La Hunt said, Greisch ar-ranged with the salesman to pay $10 monthly for the books.

"The county never buys anything on time," cried Board Chairman Alvin Ful-ker.

"We thought he could use the set in the corporation counsel's office next door," explained Hortonville Supv. Ger-hard Ruhssam, chairman of the courts committee.

"How many sets of those books do we need—there's an-good idea to have the water commission informed of (mu-nicipal) office," commented what's coming so that it can several supervisors. The board took no action on might eliminate deadends. Wagg specifically called at-books.

Dr. Robert Johnson will head the advance gifts sec-tion, while Robert Crabbe will handle the business division.

Council Approves New Police Servi-Car Bid

Milk Program of City Praised at Shortened Session

Kaukauna — In an abbreviated meeting Tuesday night members of the common council approved the purchase of a new servi-car for the police department at a cost of $1,416 as recommended by the purchasing committee. The committee had asked for bids on such a car but only one dealer submitted a proposal.

A public hearing on proposed changes to the official city map was advertised and when no one appeared in objection to a proposal to deed the Thilco road to the city by the Thilmany Pulp and Paper company, aldermen accepted the street.

United Church Women's Circles Meet Thursday

Kaukauna — Five circles of the Women's Guild of the Immanuel United Church of Christ will meet Thursday, all at private homes.

The Miriam circle will hold a breakfast meeting at 9 a. m. at the home of Mrs. John Zwick, 1501 Hendricks avenue, with Mrs. Kenneth Nimmer to lead devotions. The Faith circle will meet at 1:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Howard Patterson, 428 Klein street, with Mrs. Charles Gilkey as co-hostess.

The Mary Ida circle will hold a 1:30 p. m. dessert luncheon at the home of Mrs. C. E. Veite, 1401 Hendricks avenue, followed by a meeting at the home of Mrs. Ray Nagel, 1405 Hendricks avenue. The Ruth circle will meet at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Joseph Smith, 619 Gertrude street with members to bring articles for a silent auction.

The Orpha circle will meet at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Val Wheeler, 211 Whitney street, with Mrs. Lester Lindemuth as co-hostess.

The city. The street has been used as a public road for many years. In other action aldermen approved the deed-ing over of property to the Thilmany Pulp and Paper company which was originally earmarked for road purposes but since the road had been built north of the designated property and has been in use for many years.

Gains Honor Roll

A letter was read from the state board of health informing city officials the name of their community would be added to a national honor list for cities achieving a rating of 90 per cent or higher for milk pasteurization during 1958. The city achieved a rating of 91 per cent, although the state informed it of a few farms in the area where some deviations were noted from pasteurization regulations but these were of a minor nature.

Claim Against City

A letter from Ronald Huss regarding a $48 claim against the city for water sewer backup which damaged toys in the basement was referred to the city attorney. At the last council meeting a claim letter was placed on file after the president of the board of public works stated he felt the claim excessive and city crews had been ordered out when they offered to clean the basement.

Huss in his latest letter denied having ordered city crews out and said some aldermen had promised him his cleaning expenses would be paid. The city had a 16-inch storm sewer water running into an 8-inch sanitary line and was warned several times about the inadvisability of this, Huss claimed. Nothing was done to remedy the situation until after the basement flooding problem arose, he stated.

In other action the council authorized the mayor to attend a League of Municipalities meeting in Madison, Feb. 24, and authorized the utility to check the feasibility of installing another fire hydrant at Main avenue and Eighth street to serve the Nicolet and St. Mary school areas. Both schools have been enlarged in recent years.

Eagle Women to Try Organizing For Third Time

Kaukauna — The third organizational meeting of the Eagle Aerie auxiliary will be held at 8 p. m. this evening in the Eagle clubrooms on Island street.

Sixteen women have paid charter fees and signed the charter to date with an additional 14 expressing interest in joining, according to Mrs. Sylvester Hanby, organizer. Charter members are asked to bring prospective members to the third meeting.

It is not necessary for a woman to have a husband in the Eagle Aerie as the auxiliary is open to any woman in the city over 18 years old. A social hour will follow the business meeting, according to Mrs. Clarence Sullivan, publicity chairman.

Board Receives Six Bids on New Truck

Committee Will Tabulate Offers At Little Chute

Little Chute — Six bids on a heavy duty truck for the street department were received by the village board at a meeting Tuesday night.

After bids were opened they were turned over to the street committee for tabulation. A report is expected to come out of a committee of the whole meeting scheduled for tonight.

Apparent low bidder was the Fox Valley Truck Service, Appleton, with a bid of $7,695.25 for a GMC truck. However, the board questioned whether the same price would apply for a six or eight cylinder engine as no distinction was made in the bid price.

Remodeling Costs Preliminary estimates for the cost of remodeling work to the basement of the village hall in order to relocate the police department were submitted by the building and grounds committee.

The estimates included a cost of $3,500 for the entrance way and outside work necessary on the southeast corner of the building. Interior remodeling costs were set at $1,500 and necessary ventilating would cost about $700. The committee pointed out that this work does not include changes in plumbing lines, ceiling work or painting and decorating.

It was decided to turn the estimates over to the committee of the whole for study as to what amount of work will be done.

A recommendation by the police, fire and ordinance committee to have street department crews take down the fire alarm boxes was approved. The work will be done as soon as possible and boxes will be checked to see what kind of shape they are in and what they are worth. The boxes have not been in use for the past two years since the fire department inaugurated a telephone system of turning in alarms.

An increase in salary of $50 for the fire chief was approved by the board and will now go to the department for final approval.

Women Named to Lead Methodist Circle Programs

Kaukauna — Leaders for devotions and programs have been named for the five circles of the Women's Society of Christian service to meet Thursday.

Circle one will meet at the home of Mrs. Roy Coddington at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. Gary Tuttle to lead devotions and Mrs. Merritt Black in charge of the program. Mrs. Paul Stevens will be hostess for a 2:30 p. m. meeting of Circle two with Mrs. Earl Belonger leading devotions and Mrs. Clarence Theis in charge of the program.

Circle three will meet at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. August Schiedemeyer with Mrs. Enell Burdick to lead devotions and Mrs. Malcolm Jacobson in charge of the program. City Receives Check for 1958 Liquor Tax Share Kaukauna — The city received a check for $9,882.95 from the state representing its share of the state liquor tax for the last six months of 1958 according to Miss Ruth Wolf, city treasurer.

Tax distribution was made on the basis of 72.06 cents per capita. The total is over half of the $17,000 estimated liquor tax receipts included in the 1959 budget and is $929.45 more than was received in February, 1958. The first check in 1958 amounted to $5,153.57.

The city will receive a check for the first six months of this year in August.

Lady KC's to Discuss Brotherhood Week

Rickey Calls For 3rd Major League Now

Regards Frick's 2-Loop Proposal As 'Unworkable'

New York — Branch Rickey says the "time for expansion to a third major league in baseball is here now, not five or 10 years from now."

The third league, the chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Pirates contends, "should come about under the structure of organized baseball and with the aid and guidance of the American and National leagues."

Lashes Out Rickey now in semi-retirement, lashed out at major league clubowners for their inaction at the sportsmanship brotherhood's awards luncheon honoring Stan Musial Tuesday.

Rickey brushed off Commissioner Ford Frick's proposal for eventual expansion to two 10 or 12 team leagues as unworkable, and blamed the major leagues for pointing the minor leagues toward financial doom by their quest for television gold.

"I know there is enough manpower and funds available for a third major league and you can be sure the club owners know it, too," Rickey said.

Lists 2 'Musts' "There are at least 16 cities that want major league baseball and could support it," he added, and then listed two "musts" for formation of a new league.

One, he said, there must be a franchise for New York — and two, it must be done under strict guidance by the present leagues. The latter was in reference to the so-called "outlaw" league proposed several months ago by the New York mayor's committee on baseball if a third league is impossible under the framework of organized baseball.

He listed as cities ready for major league baseball Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Miami, Atlanta, New Orleans, Birmingham, Houston, Denver, Fort Worth-Dallas, San Diego, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Portland and Seattle.

Hilbert Tops Stockbridge Quint, 68-56

Stockbridge — Hilbert was on top all the way here Tuesday night in registering a 68-56 non-conference basketball win over Stockbridge. The victory brought the Wolves' overall record to 11-8 while Stockbridge is now 9-8.

Stockbridge made just 33 per cent of its free throws (10 for 30) and that hurt. The visitors hit a 12 of 18. Bob Lowie, Hilbert scoring star, combed 23 points. Gary Gerhart tallied 20 for the Indians.

Robertson Shatters Bearcat Point Mark

Bettors Twyman's 4-Year Record in Less Than 2 Seasons as Club Wins 11th Straight

By the Associated Press

It has taken the greatest pre-game pace in major college basketball history to do it, but Oscar Robertson has shattered in less than two seasons a Cincinnati scoring record it took a fine player named Jack Twyman four years to set.

The brilliant Bearcat came off a 10-day rest with a 43-point job Tuesday night as streaking Cincinnati overwhelmed Miami of Ohio, 102-73. Robertson now has scored 1,612 points in 47 games compared to the old Cincinnati school record of 1,598 set in 90 games by Twyman, now a star of the professional Cincinnati Royals, from 1951 through 1955.

Average is 33.1 The "Big O" has been traveling at a 34.3 per game pace since he made the Bearcats an overnight national power last season. It is the fastest pace in major school history, approached only by former Furman ace Frank Selvy's 32.5 career average.

Oscar's average for the current season rose to 33.1 in the featured game of a relatively slim program. Improving Wally Fuhrmann boomed a 580 for Ace Floor to lead the way in the Hahn's Brotherhood circuit earlier in the week. Ben Rafoth shot a 230 game and wound up with a 578 for first place Heinrich Sheet Metal (49-23).

"Doc" Gebheim rattled a 563 for Jenkel Oil in the Appleton Lutheran circuit. Alko Super Market (41-31) holds a 1-game league lead. Don Frank's 556 showed the way in the Fox Valley Fish Coups circuit. The Catfish (23-13) hold a half-game loop lead. Yvonne Vindhurst swatted a 516 and Joan Reitzner a 190.

Other honor scores in the Brotherhood loop: Wally Weber 564; Wally Moore 556; Herb Downey 226. In the Lutheran circuit Harry Kositzke had a 562. In the Fish wheel John Plach hit a 533.

The players have a meeting scheduled for March 24 at Tampa, Fla., at which time the Yost vacancy and any others would be filled.

St. Petersburg, Fla. — P —

The shortest and most compact conditioning program since World War II starts today when the Washington Senators open their Orlando, Fla., spring training camp in preparation for the 1959 baseball season.

Only the battery men will be present, but by the end of this month all 16 major league clubs will be hard at work, trying to cram two months work into less than six weeks.

New York, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh will inaugurate their training season Thursday; Boston, Detroit and St. Louis will start Friday; Milwaukee will pitch camp Saturday and Kansas City Sunday. All others, with the exception of Philadelphia, will get under way Monday, Feb. 23.

The Phillies, conducting an instructional school at Clearwater, Fla., since Feb. 6, won't get started until Feb. 27, when the full squad reports.

FOX VALLEY FRESHMAN LEAGUE

Thursday's Games: Roosevelt at Madison. Kaukauna at Menasha. Neenah at Wilson.

Co-leading Roosevelt and Menasha will be favored to defeat second division clubs Thursday and finish in a tie for the Fox Valley Freshman Basketball league championship.

Menasha is at home to fourth place Kaukauna which gave the Bluejays a tussle before going down, 30-29, earlier in the season. Roosevelt is on the road but the Appleton squad must get past only crosstown rival Madison, which is winless in eight circuit starts.

Roosevelt routed Madison, 40-17, when they met in mid-December. Thursday's other tilt dispatches Neenah to Wilson. For the Rockets' hopes for a first place tie to materialize they'll have to repeat an earlier (34-30) win while Roosevelt and Menasha are both losing.

Kynch Leads Texas Open Qualifiers

San Antonio, Tex. — Some of the top names—Arnold Palmer, Dow Finsterwald, Jay Hebert, Ken Venturi, Art Wall and E. J. Harrison—were missing today as the 150-man field for the $20,000 Texas open went through final tuneup rounds.

However, there was plenty of talent left as Gene Littler, Marty Furgol, Julius Boros, Mike Souchak, Jimmy Demaret, Doug Ford, Jack Burke and defending champion Bill Johnston tested Brackenridge park's 6,500 yards where par was given a mild-lacing Tuesday in qualifying rounds of the tour's lesser lights.

Ed Kynch, 22-year-old club professional from Sidney, N. Y., laid down a 2-under-par 69 to lead 150 would-be qualifiers seeking 70 spots in the tournament. Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex., and Huston La Clair of Birmingham shot 70s. A 77 was required to qualify and only two of 23 shooting made it.

Hawks and Colts Post Easy Wins In ARD Leagues

The Hawks whipped the Rams, 33-3, in a weekend Appleton Recreation department Eighth Grade Boys Basketball league game Tim Kranszuch hit 15 points for the Hawks.

The Colts routed the Falcons, 30-6, in a Seventh Grade league affair. Schulenburg's 12 points paced the Colts' offense.

The Wildcats, Fighting Five and Hot Shots capped Sixth Grade National division contests.

The Wildcats shaded the Eagles, 11-10, with "Moose" Miller scoring seven of the victors' points. The Fighting Five topped the Junior Terrors, 15-12, though Schroeder of the losers captured game honors with seven tallies. The Hotshots drubbed the Knock-erbockers, 14-2. Chemco rolled over SWP, 104-70, in recent action. Tom Van Wyk hit 32 for the victors while Cal Kluess had 23 and Relien 22. Sherry's posted a 35-27 win over Thilmany. Zanzig of the losers counted 12 points for game honors.

Berggren's tripped the Jags, 68-59. Brian Zordel's 22 points led Berggren's while Derby collected 23 for the Jags.

Favor Savitt In Net Tourney

Olmedo Seeded 2nd in National Indoor Meet

New York — Three members of America's successful Davis cup team, including Al-jandro (Alex) Olmedo, are in the handpicked field of 32 who open bids Thursday for the National Indoor Tennis championship.

Despite his sparkling success in Australia, where he almost single-handedly won the Davis cup and then captured the Australian national title, Olmedo will be an underdog on the fast, ill-lighted Seventh Regiment armory boards.

The tournament favorite is Dick Savitt of New York, defending champion and former Wimbledon titlist whose powerful service and volley are doubly effective on the hardwood surface.

Savitt was seeded No. 1 ahead of Olmedo, No. 2, and the latter's Davis cup teammates, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and 18-year-old Earl Buchholz of St. Louis. MacKay is another blaster who is tougher indoors than out.

If Olmedo survives his first two matches as expected, he will play probably Hugh Stewart of Pasadena, Calif., or Sidney Schwartz of New York in the quarter-finals and then, if form prevails, MacKay in the semi-finals.

All 16 opening-round matches are scheduled for the opening night.

Aragon KOs Foe But Is Fined for 'Lack of Effort'

Los Angeles — P — Welterweight Art "Golden Boy" Aragon is back in the headlines, and again the center of controversy.

Aragon, 30, was punished for $2,000 of his $8,000 purse for his 4-round knockout Jan. 31 over Charley Sawyer of Los Angeles at the Hollywood Legion stadium. Sawyer was fined $1,000 of his $2,000 end of the purse.

The penalties were announced in Sacramento late Tuesday by the state athletic commission.

Boxing experts here were somewhat aghast at the findings of the commission. Aragon was penalized for lack of effort, although he knocked Sawyer down three times in the first round and knocked him out in the fourth round in what Referee Tommy Hart called a legitimate kayo punch.

Burch tossed in eight markers to lead the way. In a Fifth Grade tilt the Bobcats shaded the Buckeyes, 4-2. And, the Blackhawks The Badgers crushed the dumped the Tornadoes, 8-4. Jets 24-2 in the Sixth Grade with G. Lutz contributing half American division. Chris of the victors' points.

Wisconsin Farm Income Shows $27,687,000 Hike From Last Year

Figures Seem to Help Benson's Stand Against Higher Supports

BY RICHARD P. POWERS
Washington — Wisconsin farm income is reported up this year. One result is to buttress Secretary of Agriculture Benson's stand against increasing dairy price supports.

The Agriculture department reports cash receipts of Wisconsin farmers for the first seven months of this year totaled $643,883,000, or $27,687,000 more than for the like period of 1957.

Most Wisconsin farm income comes from dairying and related products. Of the $643,883,000 total for the January-through-July period, $583,400,000 came from that source, only $60,483,000 from crops.

Price Support
Benson is operating the dairy price support program at 75 per cent of parity, the minimum permitted under existing law. He has hinted he would like to have authority to lower this minimum.

It is Benson's philosophy, as shown in appearances before Congressional committees and in speeches, that prices should be at the level where the consumer would take the farmer's produce off the market and not leave any unmanageable surplus.

The sum of his thinking is: "If the price is right, the people will buy it."

For Supports
Some dairy organization leaders who have sought higher supports don't agree. They argue that the people are going to buy so much milk and other dairy products anyway, and so farmers might just as well get a good price for them.

Various self-help proposals for the dairy industry were submitted to Congress this year but never really got off the ground. The Agriculture Department for years has opposed such proposals on the basis they would set up another governmental agency even though the farmers ran much of the show themselves.

The department's position is that it would favor a self-help dairy program if the farmers would go out and sell their produce on their own without any special authority from the government. Most of the self-help plans do not contemplate this.

Lamb Pools Show Boost In Popularity

14,000 Animals
Marketed at Eight Centers During '58

Madison — Lamb pools are becoming more popular every year in Wisconsin. Last year almost 14,000 slaughter lambs and 1,500 feeders and other sheep were marketed through lamb pools, reports Fred Giesler, University of Wisconsin animal husbandman.

The number of pools in the state increased last year from six to eight with the addition of Brodhead and Richland Center. This partly explains the increase of about 4,000 lambs marketed over the 1957 total. Giesler reports that 61 pool days were conducted last year, compared to 47 a year ago.

Lambs were graded, marked, and weighed at each pool by grade groups for each lamb producer. Each pool reported an increase in the proportion of lambs in the top two grades—good and choice. Giesler feels this indicates that progress is being made toward the production and marketing of higher grades, quality, and value of lambs.

Eighty per cent of the lambs in all pools were in the Blue and Double Blue group last year, compared to 62 per cent in 1957. Brodhead and Ripon had the highest percentage of lambs in the top grades.

The animal husbandman reports that a decreasing percentage of lambs came in with tails or as bucks.

Giesler feels continued improvement in grade, meatiness, and carcass yield and quality can be made through improved breeding programs, disease and parasite control, better feeding programs, and early marketing of lambs.

Pools in addition to those above were held at Lancaster, Reedsburg, Altoona, Stratford and Green Bay.

Outagamie County Soil Conservation Program Completes Record Year

1959 Promises to be Even Better, SCS Head Reports

Post-Crescent Farm Editor

An all-time record for soil conservation work was set in Outagamie county during 1958 — and prospects are for an even bigger year in 1959.

That's the gist of Conservationist Vern Geiger's annual report for the past year and his work plan for the year ahead. The facts and figures furnished by the veteran conservationist tell this story.

Geiger and his two assistants, Don Powers and Charles Carey, supervised work installing 101 miles of construction to install conservation practices during 1958. The mileage figure includes work on 143 farms.

About 30 new cooperators signed up for conservation work this year, Geiger reports, bringing the total near the 500 mark. Cooperators include those farmers who have actual construction work done and others with whom SCS personnel are drawing up farm plans.

The construction total represents 51 miles of surface drainage, 184,000 feet of tiling, 58 miles of group drainage, 18 miles of terraces, four miles of diversion, three miles of waterway, 17 miles of deep ditching, 304 acres of strip cropping, 11 drop spillway dams and 43 acres of land smoothing.

Other projects included a pumping station in the town of Liberty, 1 mile of level ditching to promote a duck habitat in the town of Maine and 40 acres of wildlife cover throughout the county.

Goals for 1959 include 3,600 acres of strip cropping, 200 acres of contour strip cropping, three miles of diversion, two miles of terracing, 90,000 of soil surveys during the year of closed drains, 45 miles of closed drains, 45 miles of farm plans.

Working with County Forester Ron Herman, the SCS personnel supervised planting of 36 acres of trees and 100 acres of improvement cutting on farmers' woodlots. The soil conservation target for 1959 is an ambitious one, but falls short of what the SCS office could do if its staff were up to strength, Geiger said.

300th Farmer Joins Calumet Soil Program

SCS Officer Starts
Work on Projects
For Coming Year

Chilton — Ray Ruch, route 4, Chilton, became the 300th Calumet county farmer to enroll in the soil conservation program when he made application to become a cooperator in the soil program last week.

About 30 Calumet county farmers join the soil conservation program each year.

Roger Thielmann, Brothertown, Claude Wilberscheid, Charlestown, and Melvin Theil, Stockbridge, have begun work on basic plans for their farms.

The local soil conservation service has started processing cost sharing requests which farmers have made with the Calumet county ASC office. In each county the soil conservation service is responsible for determining need and feasibility, necessary layout and supervision of construction, and finally certification of performance on all permanent type practices such as strip cropping, terracing and tiling. To date, about 150 requests for these services have been received for this year.

Many Billions Will be Spent on Atomic Power Plant, Seminar Told

Nuclear-Generated Electricity Still More Expensive Than Conventional Fuel

BY JANET SKRIVSETH
Post-Crescent News Service

Madison — Spending of billions of dollars for the development of atomic energy for electricity was seen as a necessity at an atomic power plant seminar held here Tuesday at the new Wisconsin center building on the University of Wisconsin campus.

The Wisconsin Public Service corporation, the Madison Gas and Electric company, the UW sponsored the "the pathfinder" and seminar. The two utilities are among 10 midwest electric companies cooperating in the building of a pilot atomic energy plant at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Although atomic-generated electric power is still more expensive than power generated by conventional fuels, it was pictured as an unavoidable necessity for the future because of the eventual shortage of other fuels.

Speakers also held out promise that the cost of atomic power plants will decline gradually.

Estimated cost of the Sioux Falls plant to be operated by the Northern States Power company will be about $27,000,000 or from $5 to $7 million more than estimated just a year ago, Harold P. Taylor, president of public service, told the seminar.

Moderate Cost

Costs of atomic power plants are in the habit of exceeding estimates, it was observed by C. B. Graham, chief engineer of the nuclear power division of the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing company, the prime contractor. Still Graham offered hope that the Sioux Falls plant will not generate electricity at an outrageous cost per kilowatt hour.

Fuel costs in a conventional power plant represent only about 15 per cent of the total electric bill, Graham said in explaining why customers cannot look for lower bills in the long run. For the same reason, today's atomic power plants do not result in any drastic increases in electric bills, he said.

Due to all the unknowns in the generation of electricity by atomic power, Graham recommended the building of many pilot plants of different sorts. Although many things can be determined in laboratories and on calculating machines, he said the building of actual plants was the only way to prove how an idea will work.

The Sioux Falls power plant will feature a nuclear fired superheater and it may be the first in the world of its sort, ice corporation, the Madison Gas and Electric company, the UW sponsored the "the pathfinder" and seminar. The two utilities are among 10 midwest electric companies cooperating in the building of a pilot atomic energy plant at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Its cost will be about twice that of a conventional fuel-burning plant of the same size, Taylor said.

Since Northern States Power company is interconnected with every surrounding electric system, including public service, Taylor said that energy from the plant can flow into the lines of other participating companies.

Other Lines

Public service and the other companies contributing to the project have many reasons for taking part in it, but the two main ones, Taylor said, are:

"First of all, we want to do our share to contribute to the advancement of the science of atomic power in the United States."

"Secondly, this project will further our knowledge by giving us first hand construction and operating experience for that time when it will be economical to add atomic power capacity to our own systems."

Fuel Reserves

Atomic fuel reserves were described as 22 times as great as conventional fuels such as coal, oil, natural gas, and water power. Present supplies of these older-known power sources are believed adequate for decades but not indefinitely. The seminar was told that fuel consumption in the next 50 years will equal that of all past recorded history.

In outlining construction of the Pathfinder, Graham said plans call for shutting down the plant three times a year, over weekends, to refuel. About one-third of the uranium core will be replaced each time. He said only a fraction of 1 per cent of the fuel element can be burned with present knowledge but there are hopes in the future that this will increase to 3 to 4 per cent.

The seminar was attended by college and high school teachers of engineering, physics, science, and mathematics, utility representatives, and professional engineers.

Council to Scan Richmond School Addition Bids

The city council will discuss the estimated $108,990 proposed Richmond school addition tonight at a committee of the whole session.

School board members and Architect George Narovec will be invited to attend to explain what some of the prices shown in a breakdown furnished by the school board are for and why they are needed.

The decision for the informal discussion was made Tuesday by the board of public works after some board members said they were confused by a listing of several alternates in the breakdown.

The perusal of the bid prices by the council is the first time it's been done. It was ordered after Ald. Alvin Tews asked for and received council approval for tighter council control of school construction projects.

Garbage Collection in Newly-Annexed Area Starts Thursday

Garbage collection will begin in the newly-annexed Schaefer plat area Thursday. Ald. Thomas K. Schneider said today.

Rubbish pickup for the 123.68-acre tract will start next Wednesday.

Garbage collection will be made on Tuesdays and Thursdays and rubbish pick up on the fourth Wednesday of the month.

The Schaefer area officially became part of the city Sunday.

Aurora Man Arraigned on Federal Charge

Arden L. Pick, 26, Aurora-ville (Wausara county), was arraigned before Federal Commissioner Stanley G. Gilbert Tuesday on a charge of making false statements to FBI agents during an investigation, Daniel Fuels, FBI agent in charge, Milwaukee, reported.

He was sent to Outagamie county jail when he failed to produce a $500 bond and will be taken to Milwaukee for court appearances.

Pick was arrested by special FBI agents after he had told them Jan. 15 in Milwaukee and Jan. 27 in Aurora-ville that his car had been stolen in Milwaukee. The car was found in Springfield.

Pick waived preliminary hearing here.

with a McCormick MF drill. Low, rubber-tired wheels make possible much smoother, faster travel in the field and on the highway.

You can do three different jobs at once with a McCormick MF drill

1. Seed grain, soybeans and other crops with equal accuracy. The McCormick MF drill sows both large and small seeds in any desired quantity per acre. Furrow openers built for your soil place seed at uniform depth for even germination and uniform ripening of the crop.
2. Distribute commercial fertilizer in any quantity from 20 to 1,135 pounds per acre as you seed. The MF drill ordinarily places fertilizer in the row with the seed, but it can be equipped to distribute fertilizer separately. Big capacity fertilizer hopper lets you work longer on one refilling.
3. Seed grass, clover, or alfalfa at the same time you sow and fertilize the nurse crop. The grass seed attachment for the MF drill lets you vary the seeding rate as little as one quart per acre. Grass seed can be released through the grain tubes or sown broadcast.

We're glad to give you complete details on how this drill helps crops grow faster — how it makes fertilizer go further by placing all plant food within easy reach of the plants. A wide range of sizes and equipment enables you to select a McCormick MF drill that's made for your needs. See us for more facts when you're in town.

Midway Picked for Extension Center

Midway until the regional planning organization could offer assistance and advice. Clarence Hammond, Fox Valley Regional Planning director, had estimated that it would take a minimum of six months to get complete information on any problem. He had been asked to speak by Kaukauna Supv. Russell De La Hunt. Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer refuted Hammond's talk and any questions to those on regional planning only, not on possible sites for the extension.

The cry of "We don't know enough about it" was raised by several supervisors, particularly about the cost of extending utilities to the Midway site.

However, Appleton Mayor Mitchell told the board that Appleton had given both Winnebago and Outagamie counties two legal opinions that the council action of Jan. 7 was binding and that the city would furnish utilities. He added that the city director of public works estimated the cost at $46,000 to $50,000.

No Rock In Area

Appleton Supv. Glenn Pelton added that no excavations in the general area had shown rock formations, often cited as a factor which would skyrocket costs. Also, Pelton explained, the sewer was to be a force line and could go over any rock as long as the sewer was below the frost line.

Mitchell pointed out that Menasha, while offering the 10-acre site 30 feet from its north boundary, would be paying nearly $36,000 by the time sewer was installed and selling job. The Midway site it had paid the Banta foundation for the site. The sewer installation contemplated by Appleton would serve a facility for 1,500 students, while the actual building—40,000 square feet—is planned to serve 500 to 700.

Mitchell explained, "Appleton never expected to have the center in the city. Students will not be in congested city traffic, since they travel at different hours than industrial traffic."

Cross Examination

Kaukauna Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon, cross examining Appleton Supv. Joseph Cummings, head of the special Outagamie committee, wanted to know if any experts had been consulted on the extension site. Cummings said some had, but the only actual planning group—the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission—could not have handled the work.

"Was there any planning outside of the land factor?" Cummings asked Bayorgeon after Cummings explained land was an important factor in choosing the 20-acre Midway site over the 10-acre Menasha site.

"Your questions are becoming unfair. We gave our reasons for selecting the site. You are asking questions for experts, not for ordinary supervisors. We got the information from experts and we had to remember at all times that this was a combined effort of two counties. That affected the site selection," Cummings replied.

"Selling Job"

Kaukauna Atty. John Esler told the board he thought the "Appleton Citizens Committee had done a magnificent job. The Midway site was sold as a compromise. Gordon Bubolz (chairman of the Appleton group) wanted to be the Henry Clay of this, the great compromiser.

"Remember, 95 per cent of the land area served by the extension center lies west and north of the Midway site . . . students go through the most congested area possible to get to Midway . . . the principal artery serving our cities is Highway 41, no other road . . . Midway simply eliminates rural Outagamie county," Esler declared, summing up his case.

Dr. Fred Hanley, UW director of extensions, said he was familiar with most of the area, since he had kept an eye open for possible extension center sites for years.

"Our consensus is that the area between Appleton and Menasha is the best, with the bulk of population in a 7 to 8-mile radius," he explained.

Started It

Menasha Mayor R. G. DuCharme told the board he started the whole investigation about 10 months ago.

(Chronologically, the UW extension center site search began Feb. 11, 1958, when the Outagamie county board established a committee to investigate the Outagamie County Teachers college as a possible site. This inquiry led to establishment of the special committee to investigate sites and asked to work with a similar committee set up in Winnebago county after DuCharme asked for help on April 17.)

DuCharme also asked for further authority, in the form of expert planners, to enter into the site selection. "We were never told by university officials that our 10 acres was not enough land," DuCharme declared, answering will jump if "we have a good new center and we will need the of land for future expansion land to plan for the future," Supvs. Sylvester Esler, Fischler, John Schreiter and Arthur Hoolban.

DuCharme also claimed the center of regional population was the Neenah-Menasha city line, if the 50,000 population of Oshkosh was included, rather than College avenue in Appleton, as stated by Dr. Hanley.

Students Origin

There is no reason why Outagamie county should build the center alone with 35 to 40 per cent of the students coming from Winnebago county, Supv. Menasha must remember that the area to the north of the city will grow and the extension center will be at its doorstep soon, he added.

Voting against the Midway site were Kaukauna Supvs. Russell De La Hunt (who also declined to sign the committee report recommending the site), Merritt Kavanaugh and J. W. DuCharme Hopes Appleton Has Luck With Center Menasha — "I wish Appleton all the luck in the world," Mayor R. G. DuCharme commented at Tuesday night's council meeting as he reviewed the selection of the Midway site by the Winnebago and Outagamie county boards for the University of Wisconsin Extension Center.

He attended meetings of both boards Tuesday and said you extended."

he was pleased he was allowed to present Menasha's case. "I am disappointed," he said. "The cards were stacked against us and we didn't have much of a chance. There are some ifs and some ands but we won't enter into that. I wish Appleton all the luck in the world."

Ald. John Klein said the mayor should be commended for his untiring efforts to secure the extension center on the Menasha site. "I know how long a time you put into it and few realized the effort both boards Tuesday and said you extended."

A Preview of Summer Boating days was given Tuesday afternoon by a group of Waupaca manufacturers who launched their amphibious house trailer, the Lake-Land cruiser, in the Fox River at the foot of Manitowoc street in Menasha. The craft features completely retractable wheels so it can be beached and is powered by an outboard motor.

Lake-Land Cruiser Passes Initial Test

Waupaca Firm Launches Combination Craft in Trial Run on Fox River

Menasha — Although Tuesday's weather was far from ideal for boating, several Waupaca men cruised on the Fox river in the new combination trailer and houseboat, the Lake-Land Cruiser. The craft is manufactured by the Waupaca foundry and was designed by D. J. Brunner. Others who launched the cruiser were C. W. Schwenn, Harris Barnhart and Vance High.

ation trailer and houseboat, the Lake-Land Cruiser. The craft is manufactured by the Waupaca foundry and was designed by D. J. Brunner. Others who launched the cruiser were C. W. Schwenn, Harris Barnhart and Vance High.

An 18 horsepower motor was used to propel the boat which is 20 feet long and 3 feet wide. The cruiser will run on as little as a seven horsepower motor, however.

Wisconsin sportsmen will get their first glimpse of the Lake-Land Cruiser at the Milwaukee Sports show March 14-22 and the Green Bay Sports show April 14 to 19.

The boat-trailer is furnished with a gas stove, refrigerator, four removal bunks in the front and a large rear deck. A 12-volt electrical system is available for use in trailer camps and places where electricity can be used.

Featuring a steel hull, aluminum cabin and a plywood interior, the craft will be manufactured at the rate of one each day at the Waupaca firm and several orders already have been placed. It will be marketed for approximately $2,100.

As further proof of the Cruiser's versatility, Brunner told of a deer hunting trip last fall where the same group used it as a hunting shack.

Larger Planes to Land at Airport

Board Takes Steps to Handle 44-Passenger Craft

Oshkosh — County board members Tuesday took steps to assure airline service by Convair airplanes starting April 26.

North Central airlines informed the board it would have to eliminate about five stops at the Winnebago county airport when it begins to use the Convair planes unless certain obstructions are removed.

The board approved paying $1,000 for an aerial easement which will permit the county to trim to roof height the trees surrounding a firm at the south end of the field. The county will pay for the tree trimming.

The trees are full grown maples and cottonwoods and will be trimmed to a height of 31 feet. Supv. Alvin Staff, attend meetings. The council confirmed the appointment mittee chairman, stated, The and instructed the clerk to send a letter of appreciation to Verbrick for his many years of service.

O'Brien is a superintendent at the Graphco, Inc., plant in Neenah and is the son of a former alderman, Walter O'Brien. He has been a resident of Menasha most of his life and was active in athletics about 44, more than that of while at Menasha High school.

He served during World war II as an ordinance officer and now is a captain in the national guard. He is 41 years old, married and has two children.

Cancel Insurance The council, acting on the recommendation of its insurance counselor, voted to cancel its Blue Cross hospitalization insurance as of April 1 and to place that insurance with the Wisconsin Physicians service.

Ald. John Klein commended the fire department for its service on an emergency call to the home of a neighbor. The council also granted a release from a claim for $137 to an insurance company for damage to the city leaf loader. The claim has been paid.

County Unable to Set Beer Sale Rule

District Attorney Cites Supreme Court Action; Only Cities, Towns Can Limit Age

Oshkosh — Counties are not allowed under state law to set up minimum age limits for the sale of beer. Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhaber advised the Winnebago county board Tuesday afternoon.

The judiciary committee had been instructed to check into a county minimum age limit for the sale of beer after receiving a letter at its January session from LeRoy Goldbeck of Neenah suggesting a minimum of 21 years for the purchase of beer.

The district attorney said only cities, villages and townships are empowered by law to set minimum age limits and no provision is made for that law by setting up a minimum limit but this was thrown out by the supreme court.

Proposed Bills The county board chairman was authorized to refer to any board committee any request for approval or opposition to house Winnebago Motors particular legislation having an effect on the county. These committees will be empowered to express the county's views.

Supv. Max Carpenter, town of Rushford, spoke on several since schedules are being prepared for the use of the larger planes and Oshkosh would be eliminated for many stops unless the trees were cut.

The board referred to its board of adjustments zoning change requests from Harvey Schmidt for a home and green house in the town of Menasha and from Karl P. Baldwin for a commercial B site in the town of Neenah. It approved the board of adjustments recommendations to rezone the M. J. Wittman property on Highway 47 in the town of Menasha to commercial B and the J. F. Gillingham and Farms, Inc., site in the town of Neenah along Highway 41 to commercial B.

Setback Change It also approved a change in the setback lines for class A and B ighways where service roads are involved.

A request for $1,000 from the Neenah-Menasha chapter of the Disabled American Veterans for help with their state convention was referred to the finance committee. The convention is set for June 11 to 14.

March 23 was set as the date for the next board meeting which will be the last one for the current board.

Supervisor Complains

More Time Spent in Discussion of Dogs Than on University Center

Oshkosh — Dogs came in for attention at Tuesday afternoon's county board meeting, so much so that it evoked a pointed remark from Supv. Oliver Thomson of Neenah.

"We've spent as much time today on dogs as we have on the university extension center and over the last nine months we have probably spent more time."

Dog claims and the new state law passed in 1957 requiring the listing of dogs by the assessors have produced numerous headaches for town and county officials. Some favor a change in the law. Others thought the new system a good one.

M. H. Morrisette, county auditor, outlined the background and the problems to the board. The county is now involved in the dog problems because it must pay the town treasurers 10 cents for each dog license issued and the assessor 15 cents for each dog listed.

Difficult to Administer "It has made it difficult for us to administer the program under the new law. We must pay the assessor on his lists made in May. These lists are turned over to the town treasurer and he collects the license the next January or February along with the taxes."

He cited that in some cases the dog has been killed or sold and ran away by license time. He mentioned that the town of Clayton has 190 dogs licensed by the treasurer but 263 listed by the assessor. Town of Winchester has 133 licensed and only 122 listed by the assessor.

Thomson made his time comparison dealing with a $500,000 university center and a 25 cent fee per dog which the county had to pay.

Sent to Committee Supv. Ben Zimmerman, town of Winnebago, moved to refer the request for a state law change to the judiciary committee but Supv. Herbert Pitz, Oshkosh, pointed out all new bills must be turned in within two weeks for passage at this legislative session.

Supv. Oliver Jacobsen, town of Menasha, suggested referring it to the assemblymen but immberman thought they should have something definite to present.

"Let Nelson call a special session," was expressed by one disgruntled supervisor who had his fill of the dog discussions which have extended over several board sessions.

Community Council Hears About Hospital

The Best Isn't Too Good for the Sick and Injured, Theda Clark Administrator Tells

Neenah — The only thing a hospital has to sell is services and the best isn't too good for the sick and injured. Gerald L. Aldridge, new administrator of Theda Clark hospital, told the Community council at its luncheon meeting Tuesday noon at the Menasha hotel.

Aldridge declared the community can be justly proud of Theda Clark hospital, that it is "your hospital and we want

Half of Patents Sought by Firms Issued, Club Told

Neenah — About half of the patents sought by corporations and one out of 10 of those sought by individuals are granted, George Verhage, patent attorney for Marathon division of American Can company, told members of the Neenah-Menasha Optimists club at the Valley Inn Tuesday.

He told what was necessary to get a patent and cited the cost runs usually from $350 to $600. A person should contact a patent attorney rather than a regular lawyer if he wants to secure a patent, he suggested.

Verhage cited a few examples of where ideas had paid off in thousands of dollars for inventors. An invention is patentable if it has novelty, utility and an inventive concept and the latter is usually the hurdle to getting the patent.

Guest at the meeting was Robert Glaeser, Fond du Lac, district lieutenant governor of the Optimists.

speaker explained that the board of trustees is policy-making only and isn't administrative. "It is a labor of love for those men," he said, as they aren't paid.

That a hospital is only as good as its medical staff was also brought out by the hospital administrator, who told that the staff members have about 72 meetings a year in addition to special sessions. He cited the importance of reviewing the work done in the various cases.

As for diagnostic and treatment, Aldridge stated that the hospital has an excellent laboratory which handled 64,320 physical examinations last year. He told that Theda Clark has all registered technicians, remarkable in that the country is short some 90,000 of them.

32,000 Prescriptions — Although the physical therapy department is crowded, it is doing an outstanding job. Last year it treated 4,300 "in" patients and 12,000 "out" patients.

Other statistics reviewed included the filling of 32,000 prescriptions and preparation of 220,000 meals. In connection with the latter, he told that the selected menu program which was installed Jan. 2 has met with good acceptance from the public.

That the nursing department is the heart of the hospital was stressed by the speaker. He said that bedside care during the period from Jan. 11-24 was 3 1/2 hours per 24-hour period when 3.2 is considered a good minimum standard.

Last year the hospital handled 7,890 "in" patients, 5,579 "out" patients and the average stay was seven days.

Put Up Correct House Number, Council Advises

Menasha — House owners whose home numbers were changed last year during a renumbering of much of the city were asked by the council Tuesday night to put up the new and correct number and to take down the old number if both numbers still are on the house.

Mayor R. G. DuCharme said quite a number of persons have not changed to their new numbers and this has created difficulties in delivering newspapers or merchandise.

He said he also had received a complaint from a physician who was called to a house but was unable to find the correct house because the house numbers had not been changed.

The mayor asked the people to comply with this request. Otherwise, the council will have to enforce the ordinance.

Jury Sets Negligence Of Neenah Area Man At 70 Pct. in Crash

Oshkosh — A circuit court jury Tuesday afternoon awarded Henry Dommer, route 1, Neenah, $8,000 for personal injuries and loss of future earnings in addition to another $17,715 awarded by the court on stipulation for medical expenses and loss of earnings but ruled he was 70 per cent negligent.

Dommer had sued for $40,000 from Henry Bertz, formerly of Menasha and now living at Oshkosh, and the Heritage Mutual Insurance company.

The jury ruled both were negligent as to lookout and Dommer for failing to yield the right-of-way but that Dommer was 70 per cent negligent and Bertz only 30 per cent negligent. The amount of negligence determines the percentage of the award Dommer will receive.

Dommer was injured while walking across County Trunk A near the Payne's point road on Dec. 28, 1956. He had alighted from a car about 5:30 in the evening and was crossing over to his home when struck by the Bertz car.

U. S. Optimism Vs. European Pessimism Explained to Club

Neenah — A mistrustful attitude toward capitalism and non-identification with their governing bodies were listed as two of the factors contributing to a separation between continental Europe and the United States by a Belgium-born professor Tuesday afternoon.

Prof. Marcel Muller of Lawrence college told Woman's Tuesday club members, "I had not really seen Europe until I had left Europe and lived in this country for some time." He traced the American optimism versus European pessimism to the American relationship with capitalism, by pointing out in this country, a high standard of living is maintained by the working class with many workers having shares in big industries.

"This is not so in Europe," he said. Because of Europe's unfortunate experience with capitalism in the earlier part of this century, Europe has become a pessimistic mooded continent, he said. As a defense against management, the laboring class in Europe formed a political party with the consequential rupture between right and left, the speaker explained. A general mistrust of a capitalistic economy arose from this, he said.

A second conflict of interest resulted in the alienation of the working class with Catholicism, he said. "A kind of iron curtain was drawn between the church and the working class," said Prof. Muller.

He summarized that the general mistrust of a capitalistic economy and the church as forces opposed to the interests of the poor, helps explain the general pessimism in Europe.

Although the split has remained and little has been done to mend differences, the church has made some effort to heal the rift, he said. America is known as a country of professed and official capitalism and is somewhat mistrusted on that basis in Europe, said the speaker.

Believers
In a discussion of people's relationship with their governing body, Prof. Muller described Americans as a "society of believers," believing in the American way of life and that political problems can be solved by representative assemblies representing individual interests.

He said Americans refer to their government as "our government," while Europeans say "the government," implying that Europeans are led and governed, but not represented. The continental European does not identify himself with the government as much as the American does, he explained.

The speaker was educated in Belgium, receiving his bachelor degree from the University of Liege and his master degree from the University of Wisconsin.

Carter Davidson, executive director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and radio and television news analyst will be guest speaker at next week's meeting.

Father Becker to Be K of C Speaker

Council Defers Approval of School Plans

Aldermen Want More Time to View Architect's Drawing

Menasha — Since council members had not had sufficient time to go over the proposed plans in detail for the new elementary school at the Sixth street park and the remodeling of the Butte des Morts school into a junior high school, they took no action on approving those plans Tuesday night.

Minutes of last Thursday night's school board meeting at which that board approved the plans were received by the council and filed.

A letter from Superintendent M. J. Geagan informing the council of the school board's action also was filed.

The aldermen also received rather than approved minutes of the park board and the recreation board since they wanted more information about the archery program proposed and about the revised rules for use of the Memorial building which are being tried for six months.

The park board granted public permits to the Polish Falcons Athletic association for a picnic at Jefferson park from May 25 to 31 and for the American Legion post at Jefferson park from June 30 to July 5.

The recreation board approved sending Director Robert Vanevorhoven to the park and recreation conference at Wisconsin Rapids from March 4 to 6 as provided in the budget and to contact the school board regarding use of the high school athletic field for the summer archery program.

Show No Alarm Over Charge That Red Ship Spying

Honolulu — U. S. navy authorities are showing no alarm concerning an assertion by Rep. James G. Fulton (R-Pa.) that the Russian scientific ship Vityaz is spying on U. S. military installations.

A spokesman at Pacific fleet headquarters told the Associated Press Monday that the Vityaz may be lingering in the vicinity of U. S. defense posts but it is "probably just doing routine work."

Fulton made his statement earlier in Washington.

The ocean is a free area, the navy spokesman said, and the Russians can do what they want there. He said the navy has not paid much attention to the vessel, which visited San Francisco and Hawaii. It sailed from here Feb. 9.

He said the Vityaz should be sailing due west from Hawaii and is believed to be on schedule.

On a motion from Fulton, the house space committee called on U. S. scientists to obtain information on the ship's schedule, work and published findings.

The Russians say the Vityaz was one of their contributions to the international geophysical year.

Mexicans See End to Livestock Menace

Mexico City — Mexicans hope they are on the road to wiping out the tick which now costs the livestock industry $160 million a year.

Mexican delegates to the regional committee on livestock and plant health reported yesterday that in some parts of pilot areas in the northern part of Veracruz state and in Durango, the pest has been eliminated through dipping or with mobile insecticide sprays.

The report said a nationwide extermination program based on this experience is contemplated.

ANSWER

Ten minutes. He would walk 20 miles in five hours; he would run 16 miles in one hour, or in six hours he would travel 36 miles; or 3-36 hour for one mile; 6-36 hour equals 10 minutes.

New Regime Gave Peasants Land, Took It Away Again

BY DR. SRIPATI CHANDRASEKHAR
Writes for the Associated Press

It is natural that in any underdeveloped country the problem of agriculture and food supply should assume paramount importance. This is particularly true in China where famine has stalked the land from time immemorial and grain has been imported since 1721.

During the last 100 years, what with a series of wars with western nations, continuous Japanese aggression after 1931, a 30-year civil war and a 6-year World War II, there has been a constant state of political unrest, economic dislocation and recurring famine. China has not known peace all over the country for even two consecutive years during the last century.

About 25 years ago, when four distinct changes between 1949 and 1958.

Agrarian Reformers

I do not think these stages were necessarily planned as such over a 10-year period. The government embarked upon them as circumstances demanded. Of course, the over-all objective of food for all workers and some kind of collective ownership of the land were there from the beginning, though earlier observers were misled on the real and revolutionary nature of the program by the land distribution scheme. There were some who even believed the Chinese communists were merely agrarian reformers.

The first stage witnessed the public trials of landlords. When the long-suffering peasantry knew that the new regime meant business, they accused the landlords of all the crimes known to man—from harsh treatment, withholding grain from a starving peasant's family, raping the peasant's daughter or taking his women as concubines, down to brutal murder.

It is possible that some landlords were guilty of these crimes, but there were no lawyers to defend them. Communist justice is of a different kind. Most landlords pleaded guilty, for the simple reason that they knew their end was near no matter what their defense.

It is estimated about two million landlords were executed. Now the land was available.

The second stage involves the distribution of land to landless peasants. A very complicated machinery was set in motion to distribute the land on the basis of numerous criteria. The average peasant received a few mou of land. (A mou equals about a sixth of an acre). There was jubilation among 500 million peasants, but it did not last long.

Within two years, the third stage was launched. It was said that private ownership of land was neither socialism nor communism, that it was both a serious economic barrier to greater production, so desperately needed, and a theoretical obstacle to socialist reconstruction.

See Their 'Error'

It is true that the peasants now had the land, but they were "helped to discover" that collective and large-scale cultivation alone could solve the problem of China's agrarian poverty and hunger. Thus collectivization was ushered in.

The peasants felt cheated, but they were made to see the need for collective ownership, for their plots were tiny and this "pocket handkerchief farming" was not yielding enough. Intensive cultivation, use of abundant fertilizers and mechanization were impossible on tiny plots.

From a modest beginning of only 300 agricultural producer cooperatives in 1952 the number rose to 14,000 in 1953 and to 600,000 in 1954. By the spring of 1956, China could boast of 1,300,000 agricultural cooperatives. This meant that only a small number of the 500 million peasants were outside the cooperatives.

One can only imagine the regimentation and effort involved in this reorganization. With this collectivization the state took away the land which it had so ceremoniously distributed to the peasants only a few years earlier.

While collective ownership and cooperative farming increased the yield, China was not yet out of the woods from the point of view of food supply. China's population had been increasing by a net annual addition of 12 to 15 million during these years, especially as the necessary and rigorous public health measures, adopted all over the country, had resulted in declining mortality rates.

Therefore the fourth and present stage—the people's communes, which were causing such heart-searching during the last few days that I was in China.

Merchandise Gifts Can Aid With Taxes

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Are you among the countless thousands of businessmen who overlook the tax savings you can achieve by making charitable contributions in your own merchandise rather than in cash?

Most businessmen are totally unaware the treasury has officially approved this tax-saving opportunity. It works this way. A businessman sells his stock in trade for more than it costs him, and the difference is his taxable profit. If he contributes the merchandise to a charity, he can take a charitable deduction equal to his normal selling price, not just to his cost. And he does not have to pay tax on the difference between cost and regular selling price for the merchandise he contributes to charity.

In other words, he is allowed a charitable contribution tax deduction for the potential profit on his merchandise.

day and dashed across the military demarcation line near Panmunjom, where the UN and communist delegates to the military armistice commission meet.

on top of what it actually cost him, without paying tax on the potential profit.

As a dollars-and-cents illustration, suppose the ABC department store—a corporation in the 52 per cent tax bracket—contributes each year about $10,000 in cash to various charitable, religious, educational or organizations. Because the $10,000 is deducted from income as a charitable contribution, the store would have gone to the treasury as taxes if the contribution hadn't been made.

new treasury rules, ABC department store switches over to making its "contributions in cash" to giving the charities directly to the charity, it can merchandise with a total normal turn that into $1,000 cash at a selling price of $10,000, once by selling it. The charity, Economically, the organization pays no tax. You take the donations are about as well off, full $1,000 charitable deduction because they presumably can dispose of the merchandise for $10,000 or use it.

But to the store, there is a big difference. Assume that its cost for the merchandise which it normally sells for $10,000 is $6,000. This means the store still gets a $10,000 charitable deduction which produces a $5,200 tax saving just as a $10,000 cash contribution would, but the store has given away only $6,000 of its own merchandise. The net out-of-pocket cost to the store is, therefore, only $800 ($6,000 less $5,200 tax saving) against $4,800 when it gave contributions in cash.

Eliminate Cost Of course, the treasury won't let you deduct the cost of the merchandise in addition to its value. Your accounting records will have to eliminate the cost of the merchandise as an additional expense.

Stock market investors have for a long time been getting a somewhat similar tax break by contributing to a charity stock or securities which appreciated in value after they bought them. For example, you pay $500 for shares which have risen in price to $1,000, and you want to give $1,000 to charity. If you sell your shares for $1,000, that won't produce the $1,000, for you must pay a tax on the $500 profit. If we assume the tax is 25 per cent, rather than the cost of the the treasury would take $125 merchandise to you.

More Favorable The new rules on contributions of merchandise are even more favorable than on charitable gifts of securities, in two ways:

(1) In the case of stocks and securities, the appreciation in value represents capital gains which are hit by the lower taxes than ordinary business income. Merchandise, on the other hand, when sold, results in ordinary income which is taxed in full at the taxpayer's top bracket. Eliminating this income produces a much greater proportionate tax saving than eliminating a long-term capital gain.

(2) The tax break works with gifts of stock or securities only when they go up after the contributor buys them (and this doesn't always happen). But merchandise almost always has a built-in appreciation because all businessmen normally sell their merchandise at more than cost. The next time you make a contribution, consider taking advantage of this rule. And if you made contributions in the kind during '58, make sure you claim the selling price as a charitable contribution rather than the cost of the merchandise to you.

gencies but that famine in China was not an emergency but a chronic state of affairs!

Again, the situation between 1946 and 1949 was so desperate that the price of a measure of rice, thanks to rocketing inflation, soared and kept changing from hour to hour.

What have the communists done to solve the food problem?

While there was some shortage of food and famine three years ago, the problem has been solved today from the quantitative point of view. No one starves in China now. Though the common man does not have meat or fruit, everybody gets at least a bowl of rice and some cabbage.

This is saying a great deal when you remember that China's population today is about 650 millions.

Any satisfactory solution of the food problem in Asian countries implies revolutionary changes in land ownership and methods of cultivation. The Chinese communists have effected, by and large successfully, such drastic changes. Their agrarian reforms have passed through

Records Set in Some Cases in Late 1958

BY SAM DAWSON

New York — Many corporate treasurers are reporting these days that the last three months of 1958 racked up big gains in earnings — in some cases setting records. This is pleasant news for stockholders who just about this time last year were beginning to realize that corporate profits were taking their deepest dip in postwar years.

It's also good news for the U. S. treasury, since it must rely heavily on income tax collections on corporate profits if it is to achieve the budget balance President Eisenhower desires. Some bankers are now saying that if business can just maintain the profit margins it enjoyed in the final months of last year, earnings this year could set a record of $46 to $47 billions, with the treasury getting roughly half of that. In its bimonthly business report today the Chase Manhattan bank of New York notes that between the first quarter of 1957 and the first quarter of 1958 profits after taxes for manufacturers of durable goods fell 50 per cent. In soft goods lines the drop was 29 per cent. But the recovery has been sharp and is now spreading through most industries. From the first quarter to the third last year non-durable earnings rose 36 per cent. The lag in the auto industry held down the total for the durable goods makers, but substantial gains in the fourth quarter to a vigorous attack on costs have put this part of the economy back on the recovery road. The bank notes: "Earnings fluctuate more widely than physical output (in manufacturing as a whole both on the up and down sides of the business cycle. "At the bottom of the recession, profit margins were pushed lower than at any time in the postwar period — they were actually one third below the postwar average." Profit gains aren't due solely to the pickup in sales. The bank says the dramatic improvement in margins is due to a sharp improvement in operating efficiency. It adds: "Between April and November, growth without inflation, corporation earnings must be high enough to support an expanding investment in new plants and equipment while costs must be held within the ability of the economy to pay them without raising prices." And economists within and without banks hold that it won't be enough for business to recover just to the level it rose — meaning always more persons in search of jobs.

Electronics 'Think' for Man at New Air Defense Command Center

BY JAMES BARTELT
Post-Crescent News Service

Sawyer Air Force Base, Mich.—While it should need no repeating, there is a blunt reminder of where the front lines would be should there be a war in this air age when you seek admittance to the SAGE direction center at this field.

A young airman with an Ozark drawl and with a pistol on his hip crisply asks you to furnish identification and state your business. My business is to see the SAGE direction center.

This is the second of two articles on the SAGE direction center at Sawyer Air Force base, Mich., one of the links in the North American air defense system.

ness was described as general orientation by an air force information officer. We then waited 10 minutes until a major came out to sign for me and to escort us into the $5,000,000 solid concrete "blockhouse."

This direction center is the location for the electronic brains for the Sault Ste. Marie air defense sector, of which northern Wisconsin including the Fox valley is a part.

The building soon will have $50,000,000 in electronic equipment to carry out the mission of the North American air defense command to "detect, identify, attack, and destroy."

Radar Scopes
On the upper floor of the windowless blast-proof building, radar scopes will be located. The work rooms are lighted with soft blue indirect lighting and the same is true of halls in order that no seconds' eyes becoming adjusted to working conditions. In this area, operators will watch the routes of hostile aircraft and get electronic suggestions calculated by time on what to do about them.

Another room, designated as a command post, contains a theater-size screen on one wall along with panels for posting of permanent statistics. In this room, the sector defense commander will set to make his decisions and watch the progress of air battles which could be hundreds of miles away.

The screen will furnish the commander with a radar picture of the sector of his responsibility every 30 seconds. If it becomes necessary, the commander also can get a picture of any part of this sector. Split-second information also can be swapped with other SAGE-directed direction centers.

Aim Ray Gun
Operators in the air surveillance room can aim sort of a ray gun at their scope to cancel out "garbage," like a thunderstorm building up over Lake Michigan, from the problem being covered by their scopes.

The SAGE system leaves only the burden of decision and the installation of radar stations to man. It allows man to monitor, plan, and decide without haste instead of tackling complex mathematical problems under time pressures.

SAGE computers get the facts for their "thinking" from code cards, magnetic tape, or from direct links with such points as radar stations. The latter include, in the case of the Sawyer direction center, large radar outposts like the one near Antigo and stations with the self-describing name of "gap-filler." One of these will operate at Two Creeks, south of Kewaunee on the Lake Michigan shore.

Before operation, the computer accepts such facts as boundaries, airfields, missile bases, present weather and the weather forecast, flight plans of military and commercial planes, and the number and range of intercepting aircraft or missiles. The brain then is ready to start watching for unidentified aircraft.

Discards Flights
The fact that SAGE discards flights of known commercial planes or friendly military planes is acknowledged. How this could possibly be so is secret.

It is when the SAGE-computed decisions to launch intercepting planes are issued that the real science-fiction takes place. The direction center, once planes are off the runway, can be given the ability to fly the planes to the intercepting area and bring them back.

The computer will be supplying such needed decisions as compass heading, flying speed, altitude, the bearing of the target, the range, the target heading, and any changes in the course of the oncoming target. While all this is going on the computer is "remembering" such things as weather, conditions, and fuel consumption.

Hum in Ears
"All the pilot gets is a hum in his ears letting him know everything is functioning properly. When this thing is in operation, the pilot doesn't have a damn thing to do but take off and land again," Lt. Col. Harry Christian, Jr., deputy commander for SAGE spew forth on the typewriter. at Sawyer, explained matter If there is trouble, the type is red.

Maintenance plans within In another monitoring the blockhouse must be as in-room, technicians will sit intricate and speedy as opera-watching blinking lights tell tions. There can, of course, them if the portion of the be no risk of lost minutes computer assigned to them is and a failure of air condition-working.

Aesthetic Factor
It was decided that no human can be expected to not the computer ready to "think" about its air force assignment.

SAGE was developed by International Business Machines in cooperation with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Western Electric has the contract for installation across the country.

Other firms involved at Sawyer include Michigan Bell Telephone company, American Telephone and Telegraph company, Radio Corporation of America, Hazeltune corporation, and System Development corporation. The latter

China Challenges Red Influence in Mongolia

Peiping Signs Technical and Economic Aid Pact With Nation; Eyes Vast Space

Tokyo—Red China appears to be challenging Soviet influence in Outer Mongolia, a barren, sparsely populated land lying between the two communist giants of the world.

Outer Mongolia emerged after World War II as a so-called independent nation the People's Republic of Mongolia. Actually, it has been little more than a Soviet province since the 1920s.

The Nationalist Chinese recognized Soviet domination in outer Mongolia. So did the Chinese communists when they drove Nationalists to the island of Formosa in 1949.

For about six years, red China's relations with Outer Mongolia were practically nil. Then in 1956 Peiping granted Mongolia 160 million rubles (Mongolian currency is tied to the Soviet ruble) and began sending in technicians.

Recently Peiping radio announced the signing in Peiping of a Chinese-Mongolian technical and economic aid pact. Red China granted Mongolia another huge ruble loan and agreed to help build two electric power stations, three concrete highway bridges, a poultry farm, a starch and alcohol factory, a metal workshop and a housing project.

Premier Chou En-lai attended the signing ceremonies. The Mongolian delegation, headed by Vice Premier D. Zolomzhants, was wined and dined.

Exchange Students
The two countries also signed a plan for cultural cooperation, calling for the exchange of students, art ensembles, etc. The Mongolian delegation praised red China's achievements.

At the moment 10,000 red Chinese technicians are believed to be in Mongolia. Railroads and highways have been built from red China's outlying areas toward the Soviet satellite.

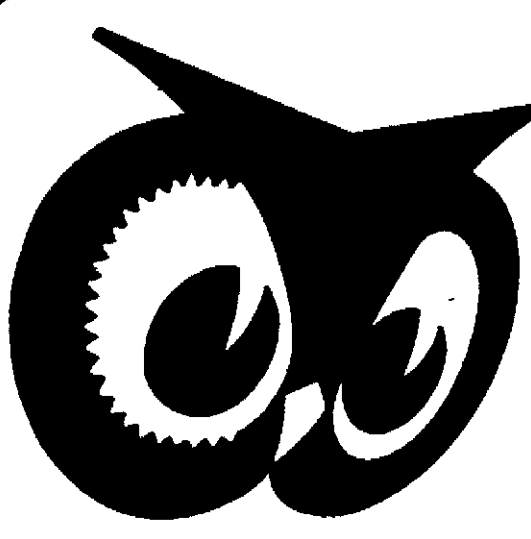

Why the red Chinese interest?
Mongolia is a nation of 1,750,000 square miles and a population of only a little over a million, mostly nomadic herdsmen.

Red China claims a population of 600 million people—and is still growing. Sparsely settled Mongolia would make a good parking place for some of this population.

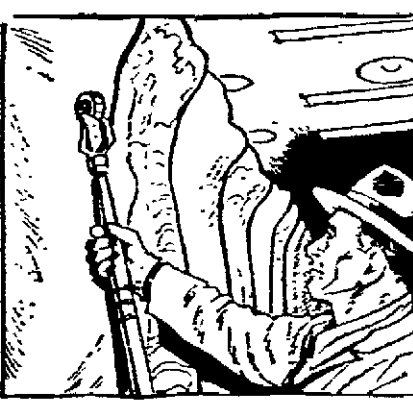

Lebanon Town Sets March 14 Caucus
Sugar Bush — The town of Lebanon nominating caucus will be held at the town hall at 1:30 p. m. March 14. Officers whose terms are expiring are Kenneth Egan, chairman; Carl Tank, clerk; Donald Crain, treasurer; John Fitzgerald, assessor; and Mark Madden and Donald Davis, supervisors.
